MISS RYAN SAYS SHE WAS NAMED IN $100,000 WILL

Miss Elizabeth M. Ryan, a member of the "Experience" Company playing in New York, testifying today in the Superior Court in her $50,000 breach of promise suit against Harry K. Mansfield, proprietor of the Fernecroft Inn, described trips she said she had taken with him to Bermuda and to Monte Carlo and declared he had made a will in which he had left her $100,000.

Miss Ryan testified that in July, 1913, Mansfield had said to her:

"What, you are not going to spin the top any more? What you're not going to play the marked cards any more?"

She testified that she had answered "No."

She went on:

"He asked me then: 'What, never again?' I said to him:

"'No, you got $9,000 out of one man. That was enough. You got so much out of one man by playing the cards.'"

COURTROOM WAS CROWDED.

Attorney Conkley, Miss Ryan's counsel, asked:

"What do you mean? Who was playing the cards?"

She answered:

"Mr. Mansfield and I."

Conkley: What reason did you give him, if any?

Miss Ryan: I told him I came near

Germany and Austria Accept Pope's Plan

By BRIXTON D'ALLAIRE.

Staff Correspondent of the American.

ROME, Jan. 6.—Pope Benedict was notified today that both Germany and Austria had accepted his suggestion that prisoners of war incapacitated for further service should be exchanged.

It was stated at the Vatican that the pontiff regarded the action of the Teutonic allies as indicating success in his efforts to relieve, in part at least, the useless suffering caused by the war.

Charge Vote Buying in Cannon Election

DANVILLE, Ill., Jan. 6.—Two investigations were under way here today into charges that 3,500 voters were purchased in the eighteenth congressional district in the November election which sent Joseph G. Cannon back to Congress. One inquiry is being made by the Federal authorities and one by the Progressive party leaders here. The Progressives were said to have secured many affidavits which charge that from $5 to $30 were paid for votes.

FALZONE IS HELD AS SLAYER IN WEIRD WAKEFIELD KILLING

Bagio Falzone who was arrested in Fitchburg and who was held without bail today in Wakefield on the charge of killing Albertson, the Lawrence jeweler.

SAYS MRS. BURNS BOUGHT POISON

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Jan. 6.—Mrs. Mary A. Burns was confronted in the office of the jail here today by William A. Chipman of the drug firm of Dyer & Chipman of Manchester, N. H., who identified her as the woman to whom he sold two ounces of cyanide of potassium on December 12 in Manchester.

The druggist said Mrs. Burns told him that the poison was for use by a jeweler, and that she was Miss Alice Howard of Raymond, N. H.

Mrs. Burns is being held without bail for a hearing on January 16 on the charge of murdering her husband, Frank A. Burns, by poison at Nottingham on December 22.

Bagio Falzone, who was arrested at Fitchburg on the charge of slaying Maurice A. Albertson, the Lawrence jeweler, at Wakefield, on December 26, was arraigned before Judge Bruce in the Malden court today and held without bail for a hearing January 11 on the murder charge.

In the arrest of Falzone the police said they had in custody all the men they sought in connection with the Albertson crime. After the court hearing Falzone was taken to the East Cambridge jail.

The courtroom was crowded when Falzone was brought into the court house. Frank Zotolli appeared as the man's counsel, and when Judge Bruce took his seat Falzone waived the reading of the complaint and pleaded not guilty.

The prosecution asked for a hearing on January 11, which was granted.

Falzone appeared cool in the court and chatted with his attorney. Around the outside of the court house were many persons who were unable to get inside.

The police say that since Falzone's arrest they have learned he was a member of the gang that attempted to blow up Superintendent Stalk's house at the time of the Wakefield Rattan Works strike.

Falzone would say nothing to the police. He appeared very nervous and at times trembled like a leaf.

Falzone was arrested by Inspector Bernard Flaherty of the Fitchburg police, who had with him State Detectives Eustace and Smith. A young man from Wakefield accompanied them and was the one who identified Falzone, who was charged with murder.

Two Lawrence Banks in Merger

LAWRENCE, Jan. 6.—The directors of the Merchants' Trust Company and of the Pacific National Bank have agreed to consolidate, according to an announcement made today. The trust company will take over the deposits and loans of the national bank. The national bank will be placed in liquidation and its stockholders will receive.

LEGISLATURE IS ORGANIZED FOR 1915 SESSION

The sacred codfish, which has spent several lonesome months under the gilded dome on Beacon Hill, had plenty of company today when the members of the Great and General Court, trooping in from every district, from Nantucket to the Berkshires, organized in preparation for tomorrow's inaugural ceremonies. Then the 1915 grist of legislation will be put through the mill.

Harrison H. Atwood of Dorchester called the House to order as senior member. In the Senate James F. Timilty wielded the gavel. They will hold office until Channing H. Cox is elected to the speakership of the House, and Calvin Coolidge of Northampton is elected president of the Senate.

Twenty-six of the thirty-three Republican Senator-elect met in caucus in the Colonial gold room of the Senate at the State House last evening to nominate officers of the Senate for 1915. Senator Ezra W. Clark of Brockton was made chairman of the caucus and Senator Bent of Cambridge was chosen secretary. Senator Norwood nominated for President of the Senate for 1915 Calvin Coolidge.

The nomination was seconded by Senator Haigis.

In accepting the nomination, President Coolidge said he felt the membership of the Senate was never better than it is going to be for the session of 1915. He urged the members to live up to their requirements.

Senator Hobbs renominated Clerk Henry D. Coolidge of Concord and Senator Martin renominated the Rev. Edward A. Horton as chaplain. Then Senator Wells of Haverhill renominated Thomas F. Fedrick of Lynn for sergeant-at-arms. Fedrick was brought up from downstairs and compelled to make a speech.

With the traditional splendor and dignity of the service, David I. Walsh of Fitchburg will tomorrow be inaugurated Governor of Massachusetts.

The inauguration will begin at 11 o'clock, when Governor Walsh will be escorted to the House of Representatives in solemn procession by the members of the Executive Council, Justices of the Supreme Court, former Governors of the Commonwealth and by other citizens prominent in civic and social life.

The procession will file into the spacious hall where will be seated the members of the Senate and the House. Members of the Governor's family will occupy places of prominence in the galleries and hundreds of guests will occupy seats in the balconies.

Secretary of State Donahue, a close personal friend of the Governor, will administer the oath of office. Governor Walsh will immediately begin the presentation of his inaugural address.

The oath of office will then be administered in turn to the Lieutenant-Governor, Grafton D. Cushing of Boston, and to the members of the Governor's Council.

BIG BATTLE NOW RAGING IN ALSACE

LONDON, Jan. 6.—Spurred on by their Emperor, the Germans in Alsace are engaged in a terrific battle with the French for the French heights of Sennheim in Alsace, which were captured yesterday by the French.

Berlin today, in its official statement, claims small gains stating that the French have been driven from the heights at the point of the bayonet, but admitting that the struggle is still raging.

The Kaiser's presence on the Alsatian front is indicated in a Hague dispatch, which said that he had gone to the front to encourage the troops there. He was at Colmers, the dispatch said, when he heard of the German reverse at Steinbach. He left at once with his staff for Strassburg.

Paris reports officially that the German troops in Flanders are attempting to regain the ground taken by the allies in the sand dunes along the coast and southeast of St. Georges, but two attacks have been repulsed. Along the Aisne and around Rheims the French artillery

POPE NAMED AS LOAN SUPERVISOR

Governor Walsh today named former State Auditor Frank H. Pope as supervisor of small loans to succeed E. Gerry Brown, who was recently removed from office.

Mr. Pope was for many years a representative and is a newspaper man.

Attleboro Mayor Asks Home Charity

ATTLEBORO, Jan. 6.—"We are accustomed to go afar in our charity. Salem is scourged by fire, Belgium lies helpless and bleeding, and we very properly hasten to contribute of our means as generously as we may to aid these suffering people. Often, however, I think we are accustomed to overlook need very near at hand, not because we are indifferent, but because we do not know and do not need keeps to find out," declared Mayor Harold E. Sweet, pleading for home charity in his inaugural address.

BERNE, Switzerland, Jan. 6.—An epidemic of smallpox has broken out in the Austrian armies, according to a dispatch from Trieste, and has spread to the interior. General vaccination has been ordered.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—A wireless dispatch from Berlin gives a report, received in the German capital from Athens, that the Dardanelles fortresses have begun to bombard the blockading Anglo-French fleets, and that one torpedo boat has been damaged.

PARIS, Jan. 6.—A French railroad employe who furnished the Germans with information that resulted in their aerial raid upon Furnes while President Poincare was there was executed last night on a charge of treason. It became known today that the President had a narrow escape from death when a bomb dropped from one of the German aeroplanes exploded a short distance from him.

KING LUDWIG, 70, LAUDS EMPIRE

By FREDERICK WERNER,

Staff Correspondent of the American.

BERLIN, via Amsterdam, Jan. 6.—King Ludwig of Bavaria celebrated his seventieth birthday today by contributing $2,000 for the relief of wives and children of his soldiers. He also issued a manifesto praising the Bavarian army and declaring his belief that the success of Bavaria and the German empire would be overwhelmingly defeated.

"Every German is now imbued with one thought, to make joyfully every sacrifice for the honor and protection of the fatherland," he said. "I express an earnest desire that there be no great festivities on the occasion of my seventieth birthday.

"With joy and pride I look upon the brave Bavarian army which confirmed its ancient renown in glorious battle and proved itself a worthy member of the German empire.

Women Ask Wilson to Support Suffrage

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—President Wilson today will receive a delegation of nearly 100 Democratic women, many of them voters, who will ask him to support a constitutional amendment for nation-wide woman suffrage.

WOMEN TRAMPLED UPON AND OVERCOME IN MAD RUSH WHEN STALLED TRAIN CATCHES FIRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Scores of persons were overcome by smoke or crushed in a wild panic that marked the worst accident in the history of the New York subway today.

Early reports given out by the police and firemen called to the scene when a stalled subway train took fire from a short circuit at Fifty-sixth street and Broadway stated that twelve persons were known to be dead and that 300 bodies were believed to be in the burning cars.

Investigation by the AMERICAN showed that the statements of the police and firemen were wholly erroneous. One woman died in an ambulance on her way to the hospital.

At 11:30 the police department made an official announcement that no lives had been lost in the accident which caused complete paralysis of the subway system owing to the burning out of the cable at the main power plant.

That scores of persons did not perish, however, was considered remarkable in view of the circumstances surrounding the accident.

The burning train was caught far below the surface of the street and the injured passengers had to be lifted up by means of ropes or carried out by firemen in a roundabout way.

Between seventy-five and 100 persons were injured. Some were so badly hurt that they may die. It will be impossible, however, to secure an accurate estimate of the number of injured until full reports are received from all the hospitals of the city. Ambu-

RUSSIANS ROUT TURKS IN TRANS-CAUCASIA; TAKE 35,000 PRISONERS

French Press Invasion of Germany in Alsace; Austrians Badly Crippled.

has silenced the German batteries. French troops have advanced 100 yards to the northwest of Rheims. In the Argonne the French have retaken 200 yards of trenches.

GERMANS RETREATING.

Telegraphing from Warsaw, the correspondent of the Bourse Gazette states that the Germans along the Bzura and Pilica Rivers in Poland are preparing to retreat.

"Russian progress in the Carpathians seems to have made the Germans afraid of a wide turning movement," his dispatch adds. "They are eppraring to retreat apparently in fear that the Russians will cut them off from their base."

The Russian military experts declare that the occupation of Bukowina will hasten the complete victory of the Czar's troops pointing out that the Austrian right wing will now be unable to operate under cover of the Carpathian forts.

From the official reports by the Grand Duke Nicholas the defeat of the Turkish armies at Ardahan and Sari-Kamysh in the Trans-Caucasus is complete, with from 25,000 to 40,000 captured as prisoners and thousands on thousands slain.

The Grand Duke Nicolas report of the victory is as follows:

"The defeat we inflicted upon the Turkish army at Sari-Kamysh is complete. The Nineteenth Turkish Army Corps was annihilated. We captured the commander of the corps, Ishkan Pasha, the commanders of Seventeenth, Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth divisions and two of their lieutenants, with all their staffs, more than 100 officers and a large number of men.

"The losses of the Turks in killed and wounded are enormous and we took many guns and machine guns, large quantities of ammunition and many supply columns.

"In honor of capturing the commander of the Turkish army corps fell to a single company of one of our regiments.

HEAVY LOSSES IN FLIGHT.

"Our victorious troops are pursuing the remnants of the Tenth Corps which are trying to escape and are inflicting heavy losses upon the routed enemy, as well as taking numerous prisoners.

"In the capture of Ardahan one of our Siberian regiments charged the enemy and sabered two companies of Turkish infantry. A squadron from the same regiment captured the colors of the Eighth Regiment of infantry. The Turks are falling back in all directions."

Next in importance to the Russian success in the east is the continued advance of the French invasion of Germany in Alsace.

According to Paris advices, the complete investment of Steinbach was was made possible after a battalion of French artillery raced up a steep slope which a German battery was also ascending. By taking a short cut and scaling almost impassable points, the French arrived at the summit of the promontory five minutes before the Germans. The French guns were quickly swung into position, and as the Germans appeared in the open they were annihilated.

Command of this strategic point enabled the French to cross the River Thur above the settlemen of Thann, and thereby add to the considerable forces closing in on Steinbach.

On December 31 the French infantry occupied most of the crests dominating Steinbach—a village of over 1,000 inhabitants—the key to Cernay (Sennheim).

AUSTRIANS IN BAD PLIGHT.

Fortunes of war are also setting against the Austrians, the other of the Teutonic allies. Word from Petrograd emphasizes the fact that while the Russians for the most part, are confining themselves to the defensive in Poland against the Germans they have been bringing down one smashing blow after another on the Austrians in Galicia.

Even more significant are the operations in Bukowina. This province is practically free of Austrian-Hungarian armed forces. To the east the Prussians have reached Sutchava, less than a mile from the Roumanian frontier.

Evidently not the slightest apprehension is felt by Russia. Indeed, the suggestion is made that, freed from the immediate menace of Austrian reprisals, Roumania is not unlikely, in the near future, substantially to modify her attitude in favor of Russia and her allies.

SMALLPOX IN ARMY.

A Berne, Switzerland, dispatch says that an epidemic of smallpox has broken out in the Austrian armies, according to a dispatch from Trieste, and has spread to the interior. General vaccination has been ordered.

A Rotterdam dispatch says that typhoid fever is raging among the German troops facing the Yser in West Flanders. Many German soldiers have arrived at Liege from the front suffering from fever. They are conveyed through the streets at night. Every military hospital in Belgium and many of those in northwestern Germany contains their quota of sick soldiers. Many deaths are occurring daily from typhoid because the overworked surgeons and nurses cannot give the sick soldiers proper care and nourishment.

A wireless dispatch from Berlin gives a report, received in the German capital from Athens, that the Dardenelles fortresses have begun to bombard Anglo-French fleets, and that one torpedo boat has been damaged.

Another son of General Ricciotti Garibaldi and grandson of the Italian patriot, has been killed in action, according to a semi-official note from Paris.

The official information bureau says an agreement has been reached between England and Germany providing for the exchange of prisoners of war who are incapacitated for further service.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—The Russian columns have completely destroyed one Turkish unit and are hotly pursuing another in a retreat which has become a disorderly rout, according to the official communication issued at Petrograd today.

These Turkish units are two of the three which invaded the Russian Caucasus last week. The column which captured Ardahan two days ago has been driven out again, the dispatches from Petrograd state, and is now nearly surrounded by Russians. The column which invaded Russia by way of Sarikamysh has been cut in halves and one of the two army corps of which it was composed entirely destroyed, the Russians claim.

The official Petrograd statement is as follows:

Today our troops won a complete victory over the Turks at Sarikamysh. We have beaten two Turkish army corps, and the Ninth Turkish army corps was completely annihilated. We made prisoners the commander of the corps, Ishkan Pasha; the commanders of the 17th, 28th and 29th divisions; more than 100 officers and a great number of soldiers.

Small bodies of Turkish troops which succeeded in escaping were rigorously pursued and destroyed. We continue the pursuit of the other parts of the Turkish forces, which are in full retreat.

PRAISE TURK VALOR.

Grand Duke Nicholas reported by telegraph that the Tenth Turkish Corps is being pursued. He announced the date of the battle of Sarikamysh as January 4. His message says that the First Turkish Corps at Ardahan was destroyed January 3.

One dispatch from Petrograd says: "Accounts received here of the Turkish defeat at Sarikamysh say that the Turks displayed great bravery when their position was seriously threatened, and made frequent desperate bayonet sorties.

"When they were compelled to vacate they made valiant but fruitless efforts to cover their retreat by a rearguard action, even the wounded continuing firing from the ground when they were struck down.

"UNWARRANTED WAR BARELY BEGUN," SAYS GENERAL MILES

LOWELL, Jan. 5.—Lieutenant-General Nelson A. Miles, retired, speaking before the Lowell Board of Trade said:

The war is one of the most unwarranted in history. It is but barely commenced and will probably go on until the resources of the powers engaged are exhausted. The nations engaged in it will be bankrupt or so burdened with debt that it will be many years before progress can be made.

Admit U. S. Right to Export Arms

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The German government, according to a statement before the House foreign affairs committee, does not expect legislation in this country to prevent the exportation of arms and ammunition to the European belligerents. Chairman Flood said he understood the German government had taken this position, and Representative Metz of New York told the committee he recently had talked with "high authorities in Berlin, who held that the United States was within its rights under international law in permitting trade in war supplies with belligerents."

Kitchener Sends Son to Sick Mother

LONDON, Jan. 6.—A Sunderland woman with five sons in the army lay dying. Through the offices of a Salvation Army officer four of the sons serving in England reached home within twenty-four hours. The fifth son, however, was at the front and the Salvationist wired to the War Office. Soon there came a reply over Lord Kitchener's signature, saying the son would be sent home. He landed in time to see his mother. The authorities had paid his expenses and gave him a seven days' furlough and traction money.

Eyes Toward God, Declares Kaiser

BERLIN, Jan. 6.—Emperor William, replying to a congratulatory message from Archduke Frederick of Austria, has wished the Austro-Turkish forces superior in number, at Ardahan against the First Corps, and at Sari Kamysh against the Ninth and Tenth Turkish Corps. The entire Ninth Corps has surrendered. Its commander and three division commanders are prisoners. The Tenth Corps is making every effort to withdraw but is being pursued by our troops.

I pray Your Imperial Highness to accept my warm felicitations for the great victory won by the army of the Caucasus. By their courage and uninterrupted efforts in all the theatres of operations the armies of the allies are preparing the definite victories of the future.

TURKISH CORPS TAKEN; 2 ROUTED

By FRANCIS LAVELLE MURRAY.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 6.—Broken remnants of the Turkish army that invaded Transcaucasia are being pursued today by the victorious Russian forces.

The defeat of the Ottoman forces was a route. The Russians are reported to have taken 35,000 prisoners besides vast quantities of war munitions and many guns.

The Ninth Turkish Corps was annihilated. It was officially announced today, and the Tenth Corps was so badly shattered that it was unable to offer any organized resistance.

Grand Duke Nicholas notified the War Office today that the Russian victory was complete and paid a tribute to the valor of the Russian troops.

The country through which the fleeing Turks are trying to escape will impair their movements and it is expected that they will lose thousands of men in the chasms and deep streams that run through the mountains.

The following telegram from the Grand Duke Nicholas, commander-in-chief of all the Russian armies, to General Joffre, commander-in-chief of the allied armies in Flanders was made public today:

I hasten to inform you of the joyful news that the army of the Caucasus, notwithstanding that its forces have been reduced to a minimum, with a view not to weaken the army in the principal theatre of the war, has won two decisive victories—on December 21 and 22 (January 2 and 3, modern calendar) against Turkish forces superior in number, at Ardahan against the First Corps, and at Sari Kamysh against the Ninth and Tenth Turkish Corps. The entire Ninth Corps has surrendered. Its commander and three division commanders are prisoners. The Tenth Corps is making every effort to withdraw but is being pursued by our troops.

I pray Your Imperial Highness to accept my warm felicitations for the great victory won by the army of the Caucasus. By their courage and uninterrupted efforts in all the theatres of operations the armies of the allies are preparing the definite victories of the future.

King Gustav May Get Nobel Peace Prize

LONDON, Jan. 6.—A dispatch to the Daily News from Norway says the Norwegian press is suggesting that the Nobel peace prize be awarded to King Gustav of Sweden for initiating the conference at Malmo, where the new entente was established, inaugurating, it is hoped, a period of lasting peace in Scandinavia.

Clemenceau Issues Warning to Wilson

PARIS, Jan. 6.—"President Wilson expects too much from American neutrality," is the only comment Georges Clemenceau makes on the United States note to Great Britain. "President Wilson has the reputation in Europe of being so wonderfully impartial that we must not be surprised if unexpected things happen," adds Clemenceau.

U. S. Shipper Dodged Mines With Cargo

BREMEN, via the Hague, Jan. 6.—Owing to the daring of an American skipper, who dodged many mines, the steamer Elmonte, from Galveston, arrived here on January 1. She brought more than 6,000 bales of cotton, the first to reach this port during the war. She was the first American merchantman to visit this port in forty years.

Deny Troops Were Sent Across Maine

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 6.—The Canadian State Department denies that there is any truth in the intimation made by Representative Bartholdt at Washington that Canadian troops had been shipped across Maine on their way to Europe.

Canadian War Head's Son Is Wounded

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 6.—Word has reached here that Colonel Garnet Hughes, sons of the Canadian minister of militia, Major General Samuel Hughes, has been wounded in France. He commands a battalion sent from Canada.

R. P. Bass' Brother Reported Wounded

John Bass, correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, is reported from Warsaw to have been wounded in the face by a piece of shrapnel shell. He is a brother of Robert P. Bass, former Governor of New Hampshire, and a Harvard man.

"Every Picture Tells A Story."

Don't be "blue."

Perhaps the fact that you are inclined to feel sad should make you happy. "How can I keep up?" Why? Because it may be a worth-while hint to take better care of yourself.

"Blues" are apt to come from poisoned blood—often are caused by uric acid which the kidneys should filter from the blood. Strengthen your kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills—the remedy recommended everywhere for backache, uric acid trouble, bladder and kidney ailments.

A Case Right Here in East Boston

Mrs. Minnie Gunderson, 224 Meridian St., East Boston, says: "I suffered about two years from backache and kidney trouble. There was a swelling in my limbs just above the ankles. I seemed to be constantly tired. I soon found out about Doan's Kidney Pills and I used them. In a short time the swelling went out of my limbs, and my kidneys worked properly."

HOW I MADE MY HAIR GROW

Woman With Marvelously Beautiful Hair Gives Simple Home Prescription Which She Used With Most Remarkable Results.

I was greatly troubled with dandruff and falling hair. I tried many of the so-called preparations and various prescriptions, but they all signally failed; many of them made my hair greasy so it was impossible to comb it or do it up properly. I think that many of the things I tried were positively injurious and from my own experience I cannot too strongly caution you against using preparations containing wood alcohol and other poisonous substances. I believe they injure the roots of the hair. After my long list of failures, I finally found a simple prescription which I can unhesitatingly state is beyond doubt the most wonderful thing for the hair I have ever seen. Many of my friends have also used it, and obtained wonderful effects therefrom. It not only is a powerful stimulant to the growth of the hair and for restoring gray hair to its natural color, but it is equally good for removing dandruff, giving the hair life and brilliancy, etc., and for the purpose of keeping the scalp in first-class condition. It also makes the hair come in soft and wavy and in nice form. I have a friend who used it two months and during that time it has not only stopped the falling of his hair and wonderfully increased its growth, but it practically restored all of his hair to its natural color. You can obtain the ingredients for making this wonderful prescription from almost any druggist. The following is the prescription:

Bay Rum, 6 oz.; Menthol crystals, ½ dram; Lavona de Composee, 2 oz. If you like it perfumed, add 1 dram of your favorite perfume. This, however, is not necessary. Apply night and morning; rub thoroughly into the scalp.

THAW READY FOR REAL STRUGGLE

MANCHESTER, N. H., Jan. 6.—Only fourteen of the thirty days of grace remain before the mandate of the United States Supreme Court ordering the extradition of Harry K. Thaw to New York becomes operative.

During the sixteen days that have passed since the court's unfavorable decree, Thaw and his legal advisers have made no important move that has been made public, but they have been decidedly active, nevertheless.

They have mapped a campaign which Thaw and his relatives feel confident will be victorious, and, as stated in yesterday's AMERICAN, the plan outlined makes no provision for further legal scrimmages in this State.

The next great battle will be waged in New York and it will be the climax of the case. It will centre on the demand of Thaw's counsel to have him tried on the conspiracy indictment, procured by William Travers Jerome as a result of Thaw's escape in August, 1913.

At that trial all questions as to the fugitive's sanity will be thrashed out if Thaw's lawyers have their way. It will be the last ditch stand. The feeling here is that Jerome will not dare to put Thaw into Matteawan pending this trial, but that the slayer of Stanford White will be placed in the Tombs in New York City, where the conspiracy trial will be held.

READY FOR REAL FIGHT.

Matteawan is in Duchess county, but Jerome got a superseding indictment in New York county for convenience. He has boasted that he would give Thaw a swift trial on the escape conspiracy, and everything here indicates that Thaw's lawyers will force him to make good the threat.

Hence when the clerk of the United States Supreme Court at Washington forwards to the clerk of the United States District Court at Concord the formal notice of the mandate that reversed Judge Aldrich's decision and makes effective the extradition papers issued by Governor Felker so long pigeonholed there is every promise that Thaw will meekly return to the Empire State in the custody of Jerome's agent, Harry Hornbeck.

Once there the real fight will get under way and former Secretary of State Philander C. Knox is known to have prepared a legal menu that will keep special Attorney General Jerome busy for some time to come. A campaign of publicity is part of the Thaw plans.

ROUTE A MYSTERY.

On January 19 or 20 High Sheriff Holman A. Drew, senior of Thaw's two guards, will have to do a little talking to himself. He will have to say to himself that it has become necessary for him as special agent of the Federal Court to surrender Thaw to himself as State custodian of the fugitive.

The formality attended to, Drew will be ready to turn the celebrated prisoner over to Jerome's agent. Just now speculation is lively as to what means Jerome's agent will adopt to convey the prisoner to New York.

GIRL OF 8 HERE AFTER OCEAN TRIP

Little Miss Mary E. Stitt, the eight-year-old girl who was detained by the New York immigration authorities after she had traveled all alone across the ocean, is at her new home in Quincy today, happy as a bird. That she had been released did not become know nuntil she reached the South Station with her foster father, Robert B. Stitt of No. 19 Wharf street, Quincy Point.

The little girl said she was just tickled to pieces to get to the Stitt home in Quincy. Mr. Stitt is her uncle and has adopted her.

The first thing the girl wanted to know about was her future schooling.

"I've heard about the wonderful schools they have in Massachusetts," she said. "I want to enter just as soon as I can. Can I?"

"Yes," was the reply.

"Oh, I'm so happy," she said.

Just as soon as she is vaccinated, she will be entered in the Washington school, Quincy.

Mr. Stitt said that little Mary was detained only a short time in New York.

"I had left the adoption papers at my hotel and when I went to the steamship pier, the immigration authorities told me I must produce the papers," he said. "So I hurried to the hotel, got them and then went back and showed them. Mary was then given over to me."

Mary was born and raised in England. She is one of five children. Her father was Alex Stitt, brother of Robert B. Stitt. Alex died several years ago.

On the passage from Maldenhead, England, to New York, Mary was the pet of the passengers. She had with her several Christmas dolls.

Grafton Farmer Uses Bottle to Raise Pigs

GRAFTON, Jan. 6.—Edwin Nelson, a well-to-do farmer, is bringing up 88 pigs on a nursing bottle. The mothers of the pigs perished during a cold spell soon after they gave birth to the litters. Nelson then bought a supply of nursing bottles and with the aid of his helper, Joe Svenson, began feeding the pigs on cows' milk.

RADCLIFFE GIRLS WORK FOR 'PROM'

"Wanted—A MAN, good, bad or indifferent, as far as looks are concerned. MUST dance the modern dances and have permission to stay out until 2 a. m. on January 13. Apply to Ima Juneyore, Radcliffe College, Cambridge."

Such is the verbal prayer of the Radcliffe junior delivered to the boys and girls of her acquaintanceship in an effort to make the annual Junior Prom a non-Adamless Eden. The 1917 lassies have abandoned their studies, turned their backs on the "Vote for Women" propaganda and packed away their knitting for the Belgian sufferers in order to give their utmost efforts in the campaign to have this year's Prom a dancing success.

The Prom this year will be held Monday, January 18, in the ball room in the Agassiz House. And the girls in arranging for it, have set aside the shattered tradition mournfully towards the bone yard. All Radcliffe dances have heretofore ended with the playing of "Home, Sweet Home" at 11 o'clock, when all the couples were bundled out and off to their respective homes. BUT this year's dance is going to be a regular dance and the girls and their attendants will scurry homeward in the wee hours of the morning. One o'clock is to be the closing time.

Little booths with cosey corners for five couples are to be arranged in the ball room. This innovation is making the greatest kind of a hit with the girls.

Twenty-four dances will be on the program. The tickets for the dance are $3.50 a couple.

CHARTER PROBERS FOR REFERENDUM

To secure the proper administration of city affairs and for the further extension of "home rule," the special recess committee of the Legislature that investigated the subject of city charters recommends the adoption of the initiative and referendum.

"Many of the advocates of the initiative and referendum argue that it might seldom be necessary to use it," says the committee, "but its mere presence and availability would have a strong influence upon men elected to city offices to encourage them to perform their duties in accordance with the best interests of the citizens as a whole."

MISS RYAN SAYS MANSFIELD'S WILL LEFT WEALTH TO HER

dying and—he said: "I'll give you half of what I've got and we will separate."

Miss Ryan wore a dark dress and her hat was of the toque variety. Mansfield sat near the reporters table.

The courtroom was crowded. In the corridors was another throng.

Attorney Coakley asked witness if she remembered the date of the fire at the Fernecroft Inn. She said it was some time in January, 1911. She could not recall the exact date. She was in New York at the time.

Asked where it was she discussed the marriage question with Mansfield, witness said it was at the Hemenway street house. It was there she went after her visit to Boston from New York to meet Mansfield. She recalled the time of her trip with Mansfield to Bermuda. She fixed the year as 1911.

Q.—What was the talk of the marriage question at the Hemenway street house?

TELLS OF MANSFIELD'S WILL.

A.—We were alone there. I said: "Grandpa, we've been together now about three and a half years and I think as long as we were alone it was well for me to call his attention to the promise he made about marrying me. I told him he said he would marry me a great many times. I told him my mother, sisters, brothers and others thought we were married. He said, as near as I can recollect, that he would marry me and to prove that he was sincere in the matter that he had made out a will in which he left me everything he had. He mentioned a gift to whom he left everything in a former will.

Witness here mentioned how Mansfield appeared anxious for to have Mr. Sullivan know about what he intended to do for her. She said Mansfield said he did not want Mr. Sullivan to know about the will on account of the other will he made out for a Salem girl. He said Sullivan was a necessary man in his business and he didn't want to crush with him.

"I saw the will he made out to me," she testified. "In the will he said he had left $25,000 to Mr. Sullivan, and had later crossed out the '25' and substituted '10.' He left $100 to a cousin, $100 each to employes of the Fernecroft Inn who had been there more than a year.

Q.—Did he tell you how much the property was worth he left you? A.—He said it was about $100,000.

Q.—Did you see this will? A.—Yes. I saw it at the Salem Trust Company. It was in a safe deposit vault opened by Mr. Mansfield. I was there a lot of times.

Q.—Just how many times? A.—Perhaps two dozen times. We'd go down there very often.

Q.—Where was this talk about the will, before or after your trip to Bermuda? A.—After. It was when we came back to the Hemenway street house.

Q.—Did you go to Fernecroft Inn? A.—No. They were rebuilding the Inn about that time. We stayed at the Hemenway street house until after the Inn was open.

After relating conversations she said she had with Mansfield in 1912 Miss Ryan was shown an identification card of leather of the open air variety. A card inside of a glass in the case bore the names of certain persons and inscriptions in French.

BALKS ON FRENCH.

"I can't read French," said Attorney Coakley. "I'll give it to Mr. Sullivan to read."

"Why give it to Sullivan?" queried the latter. "Sullivan isn't a French name. Why not give it to Coakley and leave Coakley read it?"

"Coakley isn't a French name, it's Irish."

"Well, what's Sullivan?" interjected Attorney Sullivan.

"My name is there," interjected Miss Ryan, looking at the writing on the card. She could not make out the rest. "And it's in French, too," she added, turning the case and handing it to Attorney Coakley.

"And your name's Irish, too," remarked Attorney Coakley.

WOMAN SEES HOPE IN MYSTIC NUMBER

"This is woman's year," according to an address made by Miss Emma C. Poore at the conference of the New Thought Church in Huntington Chambers. The remark led to some discussion afterward among the members.

All of mine began to study 1915. The sum of this year is 7. This, it was concluded, was the number of completeness.

"This will be a most wonderful year for womankind," declared Miss Poore. "The year is in itself a mystic number. You can read between the figures and find the digit is 7. This number runs all through the Bible. You can't help but notice it. It is the number of female completeness. We shall see this year greater opportunities for women.

"If you look at that number 7 you will find it looks somewhat like a spade turned upside down. There are to be some changes and silent revolutions concerning the earth. There will be some digging. Women need not be afraid to seize new conditions of duty. The old ideas about the subjection of woman to man will never seem so ridiculous as in the coming year. Many of the old customs in courting will be adjusted, planned.

"New ideas about love and courtship will be expressed in such ways that they will react for the great benefit of woman and men will realize as they have never before that the veil of obscurity hanging over the sex will be drawn asunder and men will see their mistakes in underestimating the value and importance of woman's mission in the world."

Jamaica Warned of German Invasion

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Jan. 6.—The local newspapers publish a guarded inspired statement notifying the people to seek safety in the hills in the event of an attack by the German fleet, which may escape from the west to the Atlantic during the Winter months.

HARVARD DOCTORS TO AID WOUNDED

Harvard University commences today to raise a fund of $10,000 to equip and maintain a "Harvard University unit" at the American hospital in Paris, to assist in caring for the wounded in the war. The war surgeons, it is expected, will stay three months on duty in France, commencing April 1.

The plan is that of President Lowell and Dean Bradford of the Harvard Medical School. It was suggested to them by Dr. Crile of Cleveland, who has already taken over a unit from the Lakeside hospital of Cleveland. Only $10,000 raised by subscription there.

Guy Lowell, the Boston architect, a cousin of President Lowell, is in charge of the raising of the funds. Mr. Lowell estimates the running expenses of the American Hospital at Paris at $1,000 a day. The Harvard unit in the hospital will probably consist of two resident surgeons, one house interne, three operating nurses and two anesthetists. Dr. Robert B. Greenough, assistant professor of surgery at the medical school, announced today that no selection had been made yet, nor had a definite call for volunteers been issued.

The American hospital in Paris has three "sides," the 450 beds in the hospital itself, presided over by a French surgeon; an intermediary relay station between Paris and the front, under charge of Dr. Joseph A. Blake, and an ambulance corps on the battle line. The third arm it is proposed to have under charge of units from the leading medical schools of the United States, each in its turn. Harvard will be the first of these schools.

Doubts Collection of Labor Judgment

James Duncan, first vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, at Quincy said that he does not believe that the judgment in the Danbury, Conn., hat boycott suit, unfairness by a Supreme Court decision, will ever be collected. He claims that the company and the hatters are friendly to each other and that the case was carried to the Supreme Court in order that the legality of the law might be tested.

MANY HURT IN N. Y. SUBWAY FIRE PANIC

Women Among Victims on Train Stalled in Underground Inferno.

lances were called from all the hospitals and the injured were taken as far away as Williamsburg and Brooklyn.

FEARED A DISASTER.

When first news of the accident was received, fears were expressed that it might be a greater tragedy than the subway disaster in Paris, in the Summer of 1903, when one hundred passengers were burned to death.

Dense clouds of black smoke rolled up from the burning train, filling the tunnel with choking suffocating fumes. Twenty-five firemen who were fighting the flames were overcome when they dashed into the smoke filled tube to rescue the imprisoned passengers.

Lying up against the burning train was another ten-car train, each coach packed to suffocation. Following the rule of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, the guards at the various stations had allowed every available inch of standing room to be filled and both were jammed to complete capacity.

When fire broke out pandemonium ensued among the passengers crowded in the darkened coaches. Men struggled to get to the exits and the sound of falling glass as the windows were smashed mingled with the screams of the women, of whom scores fainted.

Hurry calls were sent to all the hospitals in Central Manhattan and ambulances and surgeons were rushed to the scene.

Long lines of ambulances were soon standing along the streets near the Fifty-ninth street station, but many of the injured were given first aid treatment as they lay upon the sidewalks or in the nearby buildings which had been converted hastily into hospitals.

LIFTED WITH ROPES.

Three fire alarms were turned in in quick succession. The firemen, assisted by the regular police and scores of reserves, began ripping away the gratings above the ventilators. The unconscious victims were lifted through these openings with ropes.

Among the first persons rescued were five girls, all of whom were unconscious from fumes. They were Lena Moore, Emily Stedman, Dora Fischman, Julia Goldstein and Florence Leavitt. All wede upon their way to work.

The scene of the disaster was right in the heart of New York's automobile district, and soon most of the palatial offices fronting Columbus Circle were filled with unconscious forms of men and women.

Evidence of the fureeness of the panic which was raging in the cars of the train while the firemen and police fought to save them was shown by the fact that many of the women had their clothing torn completely off of them. Some of the women victims were taken to the Polyclinic Hospital in a nude condition except for the greatcoats or mackintoshes thrown about them by the policemen and firemen.

More than 100 of the passengers who were not seriously overcome were taken out by the way of the Fifty-ninth street exit. They were treated at a neighboring drug store.

There are four tracks in the subway at Fifty-ninth street, two accommodating uptown trains, the other two for the downtown trains.

Passengers in trains stalled on these tracks became panic-stricken when the smoke from the burning train began to pour into their cars.

The guards of some of the trains were forcibly overpowered and the doors thrown open, the passengers scrambling out into the narrow passageways. They risked their lives by crowding upon the third rail, which supplies the electricity to run the trains, and many of them were burned by live electric sparks.

CLIMB UP LADDER

When the fire first broke out passengers who escaped from the train tried to climb to the street by a ladder at Fifty-fifth street and Broadway. According to bystanders, the police refused to allow the people to flee in that quarter until permission had been given by the subway guards, and the guards refused to act until the firemen arrived.

Among the passengers on the burning train were Captain Moran of fire truck No. 14 and Policeman John Brogan of the West Forty-seventh street station. Both helped in the work of rescue.

The nearest hospital to the scene was the Polyclinic. Within thirty minutes seventy men and women suffering from inhalation of smoke, burns and shock had been carried there.

One woman victim was nearly insane from pain and panic, and the surgeons ordered her to the psychopathic ward until she could be calmed. It was said she would probably lose her reason.

Among the first of the policemen to reach the underground inferno was Policeman Michael de Grurie. Disregarding all personal danger, he rushed into the smoke and fell unconscious while helping the passengers to safety. He was taken to the Polyclinic Hospital for treatment, first aid methods having failed.

There were a number of children in the stalled trains, and their cries of fright added to the uproar.

District Attorney Perkins, accompanied by Assistant District Attorney Breckenridge of the Homicide Bureau, went to the scene, accompanied by a number of detectives, to begin an investigation. The first witness summoned by the Assistant District Attorney was Coroner's Physician Schultze, representing the coroner's office.

State Weights Are Found Inaccurate

Weights and measures employed by the State in State institutions were found to be "dangerously inaccurate" in an investigation completed by State Commissioner Hanson of the Weights and Measures Department.

Mr. Hanson reports to the Legislature today that one prescription scale and twelve apothecary weights used in "measuring" highly-dangerous medicines and anaesthetics were found to be inaccurate and were condemned. Also that scales used in laboratories were not sensitive enough for the finer work required.

$60,000 BETS WON BY 'POCO' BENNETT

"Poco" Bennett, who succeeded to the widely known Harvard title after the death of his father, the college "ole clothes" merchant, has attained a fame of his own, which bids fair to rival that of his father. "Poco II" is acquiring fame for picking winners, and oodles of money with the winners.

The baseball season, sports in Boston estimate, was worth about $40,000 to "Poco the Second," because he picked the Braves early in their winning streak, following them through to a $30,000 finish at the series.

Since the baseball season closed, he has been less busy, merely acquiring about $20,000 "piking," it is said, in the dazed track racing of the past couple of weeks.

Bennett had been watching the baseball chances rather closely. Once in a while he lost on the Braves. But that was early in the game. His friends thought him crazy. When the series came, they urged him not to crowd his luck, but to pick the Athletics.

But Bennett, following a custom of his, stayed by the streak of luck and placed $9,000 on the first game of the season. The second game was even more profitable. On his way back from New York he dropped $1,000 in a crap game on the train, it was said. Deducting the loss at dice, he was just $30,000 to the good at the end of the series.

Murphys Fill Card Index in Lawrence

A rush order was sent from the Lawrence City Hall today for more "M" cards with which to index the city's Job holders. These are the reasons:

Daniel J. Murphy, city solicitor.

Daniel J. Murphy, superintendent of sanitation and chairman of Board of Health.

John J. Murphy, chairman of Board of Assessors.

John W. Murphy, superintendent of public property.

Jeremiah J. Murphy, assistant sealer of weights and measures.

Joseph A. Murphy, assistant city messenger.

M. J. Murphy, police inspector.

Michael A. Murphy, patrolman.

Mary T. Murphy, school nurse.

Six Murphys, school teachers.

Several Murphys firemen and city laborers.

Watertown Man Is Held for Arson

Two horses owned by Manoot Assainian, eighteen, of Watertown, were burned to death in a fire early today which destroyed a barn on Melindy avenue, East Watertown. The police said the fire was incendiary and arrested Assainian, who was arraigned in the Waltham Court, pleaded not guilty to a charge of arson, and was held in $1,000 for a hearing Monday.

YOUTH KILLS SELF FROM OVERSTUDY

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Martin, parents of Lewis W. Martin, the fifteen-year-old Somerville high school student, who committed suicide, by shooting himself through the head, are inconsolable today, because they refused to grant the boy's frequent requests to be taken out of high school.

Despondency, brought on by overwork in his studies, is the cause ascribed by the medical examiner, Charles F. McCaffrey, who has just completed his investigation of the circumstances surrounding the boy's act. Young Martin had been sent upstairs to study his home lessons. Shortly afterward a shot was heard. His mother rushed up to his room and found him, partly dressed, on the floor. A wound in the right temple and an old-fashioned revolver, explained the revolver report. He lived, unconscious, for nearly twenty hours. His father intended to send him to Harvard.

His master, Frank H. Wilkins, said Lewis lately had not been keeping up with his work. He found every failure in a recitation extremely humiliating. He had frequently asked his father to let him leave school and go to work.

The boy is the third oldest of six children. His father, who lives at No. 9 Thurston street, Somerville, is in business in Boston.

Taken at Gun Point After Court Flight

NEW BEDFORD, Jan. 6.—Aime La Porte, who pinched twelve feet from the District Court to the ground, took a bicycle and attempted to escape, was captured by Police Electrician Davis, who pursued him in an auto. Davis fired a shot from his revolver and brought the fleeing man to a halt. La Porte was charged with burglary.

TELLS OF ASKING ROGERS DIVORCE

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—"I had begged Lorlys' legal wife to grant him a divorce so that he might fulfill his promise to marry me and save our children from a terrible future. But she refused. And then when Lorlys told me he was going with her to Chicago I felt he was slipping away from me. For his sake as well as for mine, I decided upon death for my children and myself."

Lying in Lenox Hospital, bravely waging a fight for life, because she thinks her babies are alive and need her, Mrs. Ida Sniffen Walters Rogers, the woman of beauty and sorrow, told of events that caused her to give bichloride of mercury tablets to her children and herself.

She told how—shut in by society's laws that loomed up like a beetling fortress—she came to the final conclusion that she and the babies must be removed from the path of Lorlys Felton Rogers, lawyer, sportsman and adventurer in the realm of love.

In vivid fashion she sketched an account of an alleged interview with Rogers' second wife, Mrs. Caroline Giddings-Rogers, in which she begged frenziedly that Mrs. Giddings-Rogers grant her husband a divorce, pleading he was hers because she had borne him children, and had given her life and her honor into his keeping.

An investigation of the marriage records in the municipal clerk's office in Elizabeth, N. J., furnishes another mystery in the curious case that has already involved half a dozen prominent men and women.

Ida Sniffen Walters Rogers was married to Arthur M. Walters in Elizabeth, N. J., on April 11, 1905. At that time the beautiful patient in Lebanon Hospital registered as "Mrs. C. Morris, a widow, of New York." Her age was announced as twenty-four.

Now comes the absorbing question. Were there three men in Ida Sniffen's life, as there were three women in Rogers' strange career?

The physicians now say for the first time that with "continued improvement" she will recover. But they will not prophecy the result upon her already overtaxed physical organism when she is told that the babies whom she idolized are dead, and in the eyes of the law she is the murderess.

13 Bluejackets Get Medals of Honor

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—"The medals presented today are token of a grateful country's appreciation of work nobly done; of duty well performed, of readiness to face grave danger," today declared Secretary of the Navy Daniels in presenting to thirteen bluejackets medals of honor awarded them by Congress in recognition of their gallantry at the taking of Vera Cruz. Among the thirteen was Edward A. Osborne of Boston. The secretary also read the names of those mentioned for bravery, among which were Captain William R. Rush, U. S. N., and Captain Walter N. Hill, U. S. M. C., both of the Charlestown navy yard.

Postpone Opening of Harvard Prize Play

The production of the Harvard prize play, "Common Clay," at Castle Square Theatre, which had been arranged to take place at the matinee next Thursday, January 14, has been postponed until the evening performance on the same day at 8:15. There will be no matinee at Castle Square on Thursday.

The plot of Mr. Kinkead's play is a secret that has been well kept, but enough has leaked out to ensure something in the nature of a dramatic surprise for the audience on Thursday night. Miss Mary Young will take the part of Mary Neal, which gives scope for pretty strenuous acting, and John Craig will reappear after an absence from the Castle Square boards of some weeks.

INFLAMED SKIN TROUBLE ON LEG

Itchy. Scratched and Broke Skin. Scalp Also Bothered. Dandruff. Scaled Off. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Healed.

513 East 16th St., New York City.—"About two years ago an itching took place just above the ankle. In a short time it became so itchy that at night it prevented me from sleeping and I scratched it so hard that I broke the skin. The clothing irritated it and added to the inflammation. My scalp also bothered me. The dandruff scaled off and could be seen plainly in my hair and when combing it would fall like snowflakes. My hair was very dry and lifeless and came out at the slightest touch of the comb.

"The trouble lasted eighteen months when Cuticura Soap and Ointment were suggested to me. After using them for about a month I felt improved and could rest at night. I have no more trouble now thanks to Cuticura Soap and Ointment. My leg and scalp are healed." (Signed) Patrick J. Reilly, August 8, 1914.

The Fortunes of Fanny

Joe Takes Fanny Home, and She Has a Mental Struggle Over Crandall

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER XXXIV.

Copyright, 1913, by the Star Company.

LOOKING back, Fanny remembered that Christmas evening as in a dream. She knew that she laughed and talked more than was natural to her. She felt that herein lay her only safety. If she did not joke and seem to make merry she would scream. She found herself the centre of the jolly group at Nellie's friends, of whom Joe Brown was the only masculine member. The young people had stopped on their way uptown and bought doughnuts and cider, with apples, nuts and raisins.

"A regular feast!" Joe declared. "I thought I had eaten all that I could eat this noon, but there's always room in me for one more apple and another glass of cider."

He insisted on escorting Fanny home when, at 10 o'clock, she said she must go.

"My landlady keeps her eye on me," Fanny laughed in response to the protests from her hostesses. "In fact she watches me so keenly that she says I ought to pay more rent."

"Don't you do it!" Nellie commanded. "Get another room and tell her to go hang."

"It sounds easy, don't it?" Fanny rejoined.

"It costs money to move," suggested Joe.

"Not when all one's furniture consists of one small trunk," Fanny told him. She smiled, but her voice was hard and bitter. "Good night, girls. I'm going to my cheerful six-by-four near the engine house."

Yet, when she and Joe were on their way up-town she became silent and the unusual color that had glowed in her cheeks left her, and the sparkle of excitement faded from her eyes. The young man, watching her, felt sorry for her, yet he did not know just why. He considered her very pretty and attractive, and a great pity for her made his heart beat a little more quickly than usual. It was an infernal shame that a sweet girl like this should have to face life in a big city alone.

"Is your work hard?" he asked her.

"Helen tells me you do manicuring."

"Oh, no—not so hard," she replied, "but it has its drawbacks, sometimes," with a catch in her breath. "I wish I could go away and never see the Job or the place again! It's in a barber shop, you know. That's no place for a refined girl."

SHE DOESN'T LET HIM KNOW THE WORST

She would not let him know the worst about her work, she told herself. He was a nice, friendly fellow, and she liked him. But, of course, if he knew everything about her he would look down on her. Nice men liked educated, refined girls for friends. She would never have a man friend. Who would care for a girl who did men's hands and had to submit to their attentions—or lose her job? She hated men! As brothers, fathers and husbands, they were very well she supposed. But she had no brother, her father was dead, and as to husbands—well, the kind of man she would want to marry would not want her—except to make a fool of her as Crandall had done.

She checked herself sharply. She had gone out to escape these thoughts, and here they were crowding in. She could not believe the one thing that compelled her mind and all she heard in from Crandall. Why, she asked herself, should he lie to her? A year ago, when Joe Jr. first spoke to her, that name to her mind.

"Helen tells me you have a sister. Does she work, or live at home?"

"Both," he replied with a smile. "That is, she is a stenographer in a lawyer's office, and she lives at home with my mother."

"And you live with them too?"

"Yes, when I'm at home at all. But I travel for the Iron Top white lead paint concern."

"I see." Joe girl replied. She supposed this that he got a good salary—he, a strong man, who could face the world, while she, a weak, helpless girl, had to struggle along in a half bottomless existence or loathed dissipation. Of the people with whom she came in contact.

"He's good to be a man," she said presently. "One is able to try any kind of work and yet keep people's respect.

"You is a woman," he reminded her. "All decent work is worthy of respect."

"You don't know anything about it," she retorted. "How should you? You're a man!"

JOE ASKS IF HE CAN'T HELP HER

They had reached her door by now, and she held out her hand with a tremulous laugh. "Good night!" she said. "Excuse me if I spoke crossly just now. I'm tired, and things aren't going smoothly with me."

He held her hand for a moment. "Can't I help you in any way?" he asked, genuine concern in his kind voice.

"Thank you, no," she returned, drawing her hand from him.

"Poor kid!" Joe Brown muttered to himself as he turned his steps homeward. "She seems up against it all right enough. Yet she wouldn't let a body advise her—for she shuts a fellow up if he offers to help her. I'd like to do something for her—poor little thing."

He could not know that as the "poor little thing" climbed the stairs to her lonely room hot tears were coursing down her cheeks. The kind words had touched her, but following the throb of gratitude there came the remembrance of how Crandall had also spoken kindly to her—and she had believed him, had trusted that he loved her; that he meant to make her his wife.

"I'll never trust another man—never!" she whispered angrily. Then, once more, to keep herself from despair, she added, "But I won't believe what I heard about him—until he says it's true! I WON'T believe it!"

She did not know that, had she not believed it, she would not have been so passionate in her declarations of disbelief.

As she entered her room she heard Mrs. Sharpe shut a front window softly. At the sound a wave of indignation swept over the girl for she knew that her suspicious landlady had been watching from the window for her return, and had seen her parting from a man at the front door. Surely everything was against her!

On the Stage Mrs. Castle Wears Gowns of Surpassing Originality, Designed Exclusively for Her by Lady Duff-Gordon Personally

Photos copyrighted by Ira Hill's studio.

THIS broadcloth gown is of heavy silver gray and blue silk, trimmed with blue and gray fox. The muff is of blue fox, lined with green, and the hat is of the same color, gray, as the gown, trimmed with mauve. The sleeves are very shapeless tubes of gray blue chiffon, trimmed with fur. To the right is another view of the same gown, showing it laced up front and side with gold green shot messaline.

THIS gown of yellow chiffon is banded with pale blue and bright green ruching and garlanded with flowers of all colors. The strap on the shoulder is of diamonds and pearls. The little bodice is of pale blue satin.

Flesh-colored silk stockings and satin slippers are worn with both gowns.

THE under dress of gray blue chiffon worn under the costume to the left. It has a green satin sash and a bunch of lavender flowers. The skirt is made enormously full, being thirty yards around the bottom.

Come, my love, the world today
Is sweter far in thine our dream.
Let us efforce a holiday!
With the lazy sunkissed stream.
Let us lie upon her edges,
Where green rushes nod their tallness,
Waving crowns of dusky sedges
And of pale marsh-mallows.

Come, my love, make holiday!
All the world is fairer, green;
Let us leave our work and play
Where our mutter sunbeams seem
Moonlight—Bits of song
Free those golden stores—
Let us share Earth's wealth and hold
Holidays—out doors.

Come, my love, for soon the sway
Of the Frost King will begin;
Let us share a holiday
With our woodland kith and kin.
Watch them, ere Earth's bleakness comes,
Hoard away her stores;
So 'gainst Winter let us hoard
Hours of gold—out doors.

MAIDEN MEDITATIONS

Truth is not always at the bottom of a well—like gold, it is where you find it!

A man who is caught in a tight place ought to make a point of having sharp wits with which to cut his way out.

Very few self-made men would find that it paid to take out a patent on the process.

If what you want to borrow is trouble, you won't need anyone to go security for you—you can get all you want without pledging any return of it.

"Tact is the unsaid portion of what you think." But when an angry woman has said all she has breath for and says a lot more by keeping still, that is not tact.

The one thing worse than taking a kiss without asking for it, is asking for it without taking it.

The girl who flits ten places in as many weeks certainly has plenty of experience to recommend. But it doesn't recommend her.

I once knew every flower that grew
Upon the sloping green-clad hill;
My friend was every bird that flew;
They'd come to me if I stood still.
The squirrels frisked and ate the nuts
I bought down at the corner store.
I once was wise, who have today
A stupid hoard of dull book lore.

I knew the wood—the trees—the hill,
I found the little green banked pool
Where leaping trout made boy hearts thrill
When we came wandering home from school.
Now I forget those country joys
That filled my youthful, clear-eyed eyes
The city gave me brand new toys—
And I forgot. Who once was wise.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

TALK IT OVER WITH HIM

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Last Summer I met a young man in the country. He showed me marked attention, and since then has called on me at intervals of six and eight weeks. Last week he asked me to wait for him a year and he would then be in a position to marry. I reproached him with his long intervals of absence, and he said that he is doing some work after business hours, which keeps him busy, and that on Sundays he generally goes out with the boys. I am seeking your advice because my mother and I think differently about this matter. My mother claims that he has no obligations toward me.

GOLDEN LOCKS.

THE young man was under no obligations to you up to the time he asked you to be his wife a year from now. But it is most unusual to say the least, for a man to absent himself for a week from the girl he has asked to marry him. Write and ask him to come to see you at a stated evening and tell him that you miss all the real tenderness from his manner and actions that could be needed to convince you of his sincere feeling. A woman has every right to have a clear understanding with the man she has promised to marry.

AN ESCORT'S DUTY

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Is this proper for a gentleman to do? He took me out to a drinking and dancing place. We sat at a table and a lady friend of his came over and asked him for a dance. He asked my permission and I told him yes. Was it right of him to go and leave me alone?

E. A.

AN escort has no right to leave a young woman alone in a public restaurant for so selfish a reason as that he wishes to dance with another young woman. You should not have consented to being left alone unless you were quite willing to be put in this position. But my criticism is really for the girl who did so brazen a thing as to ask your escort to dance with her.

Do You Know That—

St. Pierre, in the French West Indies, with its thirty thousand inhabitants, destroyed by the eruption of Mount Pelee, has never been rebuilt. The city is as barren as an abandoned granite quarry, and reminds the visitor of Pompeii, yet the ruins are still being searched for valuables.

Excavations made near Linges, Belgium, before the war, unearthed a Roman villa. In the basement of which was found a quantity of coal in large pieces. This leads to the belief that the coal deposits of Belgium were exploited as far back as the beginning of the Christian era.

A Portuguese, Alberto Castello Branco, is said to have planted the first coffee tree in Rio de Janeiro in the year 1760, and from this small beginning has been developed the industry which has made Brazil the greatest coffee producer of the world.

Old Time Cold Cure—Drink Tea

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip. Is it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels. Thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Advertisement.

MISS COPE FACES ACCUSERS JAN. 28

CHICAGO, Jan. 6—Jessie Elizabeth Cope, accuser under the Mann act of Colonel Charles Alexander, wealthy Tarkesia grocer, steel magnate and banker of Providence, R. I., pleaded not guilty when arraigned here on a charge of attempted bribery, and her trial was set for January 28. She is accused of having offered federal officials $25,000 if they would aid her in obtaining $50,000 from Colonel Alexander by threatening him with prosecution.

OUCH! LUMBAGO! RUB PAINS FROM SORE, LAME BACK

Back hurt you? Can't straighten up without feeling sudden pains, sharp aches and twinges? Now listen! That's lumbago, sciatica or maybe from a strain, and you'll get relief the moment you rub your back with soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil." Nothing else takes out soreness, lameness and stiffness so quickly. You simply rub it on your back and out comes the pain. It is harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

Limber up! Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" from any drug store, and after using it just once you'll forget that you ever had backache, lumbago or sciatica, because your back will never hurt or cause any more misery. It never disappoints and has been recommended for 60 years. —Advertisement.

POLICEWOMAN FOR MODEST DRESSES

Mrs. Anna T. Steinauer, Boston's first policewoman, who believes at least 100 women officers are needed in Boston, today explained how the policewomen could reform the dress of young girls.

"A few years ago," said Mrs. Steinauer, "no girl would dare dress as she does now. Their low-necked dresses and slit skirts are beyond the wildest dreams of a few years ago.

"Such garments attract attention upon the street, attract the attention of both men and boys, and place the girls themselves open to insult. Vulgar clothing leads to acquaintance that would better never be formed.

"Not only girls, but women also are dressing most immodestly today. It is not a rare thing, in a street car, for instance, to find opposite you a woman in an evening gown—or what amounts to the same thing—so low is the neck it would arouse comment in an evening function.

"A low-necked dress is not meant to be worn in broad daylight. And with dresses getting lower at the neck and shorter at the bottom—why there's just no end to it.

"A girl in such garments invites insult and is in actual danger because of the way she is clothed. She may not realize this, but a police woman, with authority to lend it dignity, could go to that girl's home and explain to the parents the danger the child runs, and much good could be done in such fashion.

"A policewoman's work is not at all parallel to a policeman's functions. His is punitive—largely; hers is preventive.

"If women who abhor the modern styles would combine to condemn them we could do away with the wholesale bad dressing. But all women are ready to take united action the police sentiment will be a most effective force for better conditions."

Youngest Grandma at 32

Lynn Woman Takes Honor

Three generations in the Hanscom family; Mrs. George F. Hanscom, aged 32, the youngest grandmother, and, below, her daughter, Mrs. Melvin Hanscom, aged 15, and granddaughter, Rose Elizabeth Hanscom, aged 15 months. Mother and daughter married brothers.

Mrs. Hanscom Is Also Sister-in-Law of Her Son-in-Law.

The youngest grandmother in the United States is Mrs. George F. Hanscom, thirty-two, formerly of Fitchburg, but now living at No. 7 Market street, Lynn, with her daughter, Mrs. Melvin Hanscom, the fifteen-year-old mother of Rose Elizabeth Hanscom, thirteen months old.

Mother and daughter married brothers. The mother married George F. Hanscom and her daughter married his brother, Melvin, six years later. Besides being the youngest grandmother in the United States, she is also sister-in-law of her son-in-law, and incidentally this makes George F. Hanscom stepfather of his own brother, Melvin.

Little Miss Rose represents the fourth generation in the mother's family. Her great grandfather and grandmother, Mr. and Mrs. Fred De Lodge, live at No. 11 Chadwick street, Fitchburg. The baby's great-great-grandfather, Gus Busse of Sherbrooke, Canada, died recently. Mrs. George F. Hanscom, the youngest grandmother, was formerly Mrs. Emery Pratt of Fitchburg.

MRS. DRAPER GIVES 'NEUTRAL DINNER'

Mrs. William F. Draper, the widow of General Draper of Hopedale, former Ambassador to Italy, and mother of the beautiful Margaret Preston Draper, has again set the pace for society at Washington with a "neutrality dinner" in honor of the Italian Ambassador and Countess Macchi di Cellere.

In Boston and Hopedale Mrs. Draper is known as one of society's most lavish entertainers. These were some of the things served at her "neutrality dinner," according to a Washington dispatch today:

French peas.
German salad.
Irish potatoes.
Italian olives.
English plum pudding.

The famous Draper gold dinner service was used. This bore out the neutrality idea, as the dishes of pure gold are engraved with the art of all the leading countries of Europe.

Here are some of the other entertainments which have given Mrs. Draper a unique place in society:

Started the "personal moving picture" fad in Washington society. The "movies" are of some members of the social set and are shown in connection with teas.

Gave a wondrous dinner in honor of Miss Mary R. Scotherland, who married Louis Bacon, Harvard grad late, yachtsman and Boston society man.

Gave a brilliant Eighteenth Century Christmas ball in honor of the coming-out of her daughter, Margaret, at which the hostess wore $50,000 worth of pearls. Society recalls this as the "pearl ball."

Became a social arbiter in Rome when her late husband was ambassador to that country, and her levees were said to surpass those even of Queen Margherita.

Brought live humming birds from Florida and butterflies from California for a $25,000 cotillion for her daughter.

Theatre Magnates in Big Agreement

NEW YORK, Jan. 6—The theatrical interests of Klaw and Erlanger and the Shuberts have become one, so far as the control of the theatres and attractions in every city in the United States, except New York, is concerned. The abolishment of many as far as the control of the theatres will be the first move of the consolidated interests.

The Massachusetts Horticultural Society will meet at Horticultural Hall on Saturday at 11 a. m. An inaugural address will be read by President Farquhar and various reports made.

HOLCOMB SWORN IN AS GOVERNOR

WASHINGTON (D. C.), Jan. 6—Marcus Holcomb, formerly of Southington was today formally inducted into office as the seventy-sixth Governor of Connecticut, succeeding Governor Simeon E. Baldwin, the Republican successor to the Democrat, who held the office for four years.

Coincident with the inauguration of the Governor, a complete set of Republican State officers assumed control of the Legislature which has convened in the Governor's inaugural message was overwhelmingly Republican.

Governor Holcomb repeatedly urged economy in conducting the legislature in his address, citing the specific fact that Connecticut has a bonded debt of $3,000,000 and the condition of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad's finances.

END INDIGESTION OR STOMACH PAIN IN FIVE MINUTES

"Pape's Diapepsin" makes sick, sour, gassy stomachs feel fine.

Time it! In five minutes all stomach distress will go. No indigestion, heartburn, sourness, belching of gas, acid, or eructations of undigested food, no dizziness, bloating, foul breath or headache. Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in regulating upset stomachs. It is the surest, quickest and most certain indigestion remedy in the whole world, and besides it is harmless.

Millions of men and women now eat their hearty meals without fear—they know Pape's Diapepsin will save them from any stomach misery.

Please, for your sake, get a large fifty-cent case from any druggist. Diapepsin from any drug store and put your stomach right, keep on being miserable—life is too short—you are not here long, so make your stay agreeable. Eat what you like and digest it, enjoy it, without dread of rebellion in the stomach.

Pape's Diapepsin belongs in your home anyway. Should one or more in your family be sometimes don't agree with them, or in case of sudden attack of indigestion, gastritis or stomach derangement at daytime or during the night, it is handy to give the quickest surest relief known.—Advertisement.

Sues Milton Man on $10,000 Lost Love

William A. Betts of Milton is named defendant in a suit for $10,000, filed in the East Cambridge Superior Court by Carl O. Sundquist of Waltham. Sundquist alleges alienation of the affections of his wife, Clara E. Sundquist.

McCormick Rejoins the Republicans

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 6.—At the Republican caucus at the State House of Representatives, before the opening tomorrow of the Illinois Legislature, Medill McCormick, vice-chairman of the Progressive National Committee, and H. S. Hicks of Rockford, the only other Progressive in the Lower House, announced their intention of voting with the Republicans during the session.

McCormick, in a speech before the caucus, said: "I am glad to get back to the party of my fathers." Hicks also spoke.

Makes Stubborn Coughs Vanish in a Hurry

Surprisingly Good Cough Syrup Easily and Cheaply Made at Home

If some one in your family has an obstinate cough or a bad throat or chest cold that has been hanging on and refuses to yield to treatment, get from any drug store 2½ ounces of Pinex and make it into a pint of cough syrup, and watch that cough vanish.

Pour the 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. The total cost is about 54 cents, and gives you a full pint—a family supply—of a most effective remedy, at a saving of $2. A day's use will usually overcome a hard cough. Easily prepared in 5 minutes—full directions with Pinex. Keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste. Children like it.

It's really remarkable how promptly and easily it loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals the inflamed membranes in a painful cough. It also stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough. A splendid remedy for bronchitis, winter coughs, bronchial asthma and whooping cough.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in guaiacol, which is so healing to the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction goes with this preparation or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

The extraordinary dollar-for-dollar value and unequalled service that explain the success of the Ford car are present even to a greater extent than ever before in the new Ford Coupelet. You have in this happy example of the two-cars-in-one idea, a greater degree of comfort and luxury. A matter of two minutes and the top is up transforming the roadster into a coupe and the driver is safe from all the rigors of weather. The Coupelet is built on the famous Ford chassis—the same chassis the qualities of which have made the name of the Ford a household word for reliable service and economy—less than two cents per mile.

Ford Coupelet $750; Sedan $975; Town Car $900; Touring Car $490; Runabout $440. All fully equipped, f. o. b. Detroit.

On sale at 567 Boylston Street, Boston, and Charles River Road, Cambridge.

Buyers will share in profits if we sell at retail 500,000 new Ford cars between August, 1914, and August, 1915.

FITZGERALD CALLS MUNICIPAL LODGINGS 'DISGRACE TO CITY'

FLAPDOODLE—Food for fools; hence, merely specious talk; nonsense.—Definition from Webster's Dictionary.

Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald today came back with another broadside at Mayor Curley.

Following the Mayor's reply in yesterday's Boston AMERICAN to Fitzgerald's attack on his administration, as made before the City Council, the former Mayor buried Curley's claims of accomplishment as "flapdoodle."

Fitzgerald, in his original attack, said that Curley was neglecting improvements which, if carried out, would do much to solve the problem of Boston's unemployed. Curley replied in the AMERICAN yesterday that "if mere words would feed the poor of Boston, none would be hungry," and also gave a list of accomplishments which he said credited his own administration with action and efficiency.

Fitzgerald declared today that nearly all the reforms credited to the first year of the Curley administration were inaugurated during his own term in office. He also scored Curley for opposing further reforms.

FITZGERALD IDEAS.

Among the necessities of the present, Fitzgerald pointed out, are a new municipal lodging house, a new building for the City Hall avenue police and the new housing of school headquarters. He assailed Curley for his salary reductions in the hospital department and for some of his removals and appointments.

Former Mayor Fitzgerald's latest statement, in full, follows:

"The improvements which Mayor Curley enumerates largely date back to my administration.

"His industrial bureau is a copy of mine, organized in my first administration, except that he started out to get $1,000,000 and got $70, and nobody that I know is able to locate the $12,000,000 of industries.

"The gas lighting contract is the same that I advocated. John A. Sullivan, who insisted that I should spend $300,000 for new lamps, changed his mind when I got out of office, and advised the City Council to accept the Boston Gas Company proposition which I had urged for two years. The original electric light contract proposed by Mayor Curley and advocated by John A. Sullivan was rightly advocated by the Boston press as the worst ever presented to a city government.

"The head of the supply department is the same man whom I appointed and is conducting business in the same manner, though coal and some other materials are much cheaper now than when Mayor Curley ordered the big purchase in the spring. The building of private streets was a feature of my six years in office, though my predecessor had abandoned the practice.

"During my term the city spent more than $2,000,000 for these improvements. The Stony Brook sewer work was finished under me, millions being spent, while work was initiated in the downtown section, where it was badly needed, and, contrary to the statement issued from the Mayor's office a week ago, no administration in recent years has stopped sewer work on November 15, the expenditure this year being about the average.

"The lowest death rate in 1914 follows the lowest death rate in 1912, due to my creation of the Bureau of Child Hygiene under Dr. Sullivan and rigid inspection of milk under Dr. Mullowney. Boston getting the distinction of having the best milk supply in the country.

"How Mayor Curley has appreciated this wonderful work of nurses and doctors is shown by the fact that he has reduced the pay of the nurses from $75 to $60 a month and doctors from $500 to $300 a year.

DENIES HOSPITAL BILL.

"Motorization of the fire department was inaugurated by Mayor Hibbard and continued under me to the amount of hundreds of thousands of dollars, and most of the new apparatus the present year are deliveries of machines ordered by me.

"Fire prevention legislation was inaugurated by me and the new law on the statute books is a result of legislation introduced by me and the bill was approved by Mayor Curley and John A. Sullivan.

"The 'Widows' Pension act went into force under my administration, and Mayor Curley is paying the bills as they arise.

"His statement that more than $1,000,000 was spent on the City Hospital is not true, the monthly report of the city auditor of December 1 showing an expenditure of about $18,000 although my administration authorized an appropriation of $291,000.

"Street openings have always been paid for by the corporations, Mayor Curley's reform consisting of slight change in the method.

"High pressure service was inaugurated by me and most of the money thus far spent appropriated under my administration.

"Street tree development was my idea and Dorchester street, Huntington street, Commonwealth avenue, Blue Hill avenue and avenue Louis Pasteur were planted, and I do not know of any streets planted the present year.

"The rhododendron garden in the Back Bay and the horticultural building were planned under my administration and the money appropriated, and it was only after some effort that Mayor Curley was induced to permit the laying out of the garden, and the money for the horticultural building was devoted to other purposes.

"The new school quarters were planned by me two years ago and legislation obtained at the State House to permit the building of a fine structure on land owned by the city on Tremont street, without cost to the city through the sale of the Mason street and Police Station 2 properties.

LODGINGS "DISGRACE."

"Thus it will be seen that Mr. Curley's so-called achievements are about all the result of work begun by my administration and finished in the ordinary course of events under him. He would have stopped many of them if he could, but they were too far under way. He cannot escape, however, the responsibility for stopping the other improvements enumerated by me before the City Council.

"He calls them luxuries. Just imagine the frame of mind the Mayor was in when, after advocating the passage of an act calling for the ultimate expenditure of more than $1,000,000 for the continuation of the Strandway, he termed the erection of a decent municipal lodging house for men a luxury.

"Boston's present accommodations are a disgrace. Over being two sanitaries where more than 200 men are being housed almost like sardines in a box.

"Mayor Curley will soon dedicate the Ward 17 Municipal Building auditorium by me, and he has publicly stated it is a great improvement, yet he calls similar buildings on Roslindale and the South End luxuries.

"Conditions in Police Station 2 have been unspeakable for years, and the Mason street school headquarters shabby, yet he calls the erection of a new building paid for out of the sale of the old structure a luxury.

"Boston's display of trees and plants are seen but for two months in the year. Every big city in the world has a horticultural building where people can visit all the year, and my plan called for a beautiful building out of the Parkman fund, yet he calls such a building a luxury.

"He may fool part of the people all of the time and all of the people part of the time, but he cannot fool the people all the time."

"The building trades never had as many men idle as there are today, and aside from the question of humanity, the work can be done better and more economically now.

"POLITICAL FAVOR."

"These improvements, amounting to about $1,000,000, should be started now, and when there are hundreds of our citizens who must either face starvation or accept public charity looking for this kind of employment His Honor faces a fearful responsibility when he denies them.

"One sentence in the Mayor's reply calls for particular mention. Though no political favor characterizes his Administration, yet on the same page was recorded the compulsory appointment of the family physician of himself and John A. Sullivan, a good man and a good physician, but absolutely without institutional experience, to be superintendent of the City Hospital.

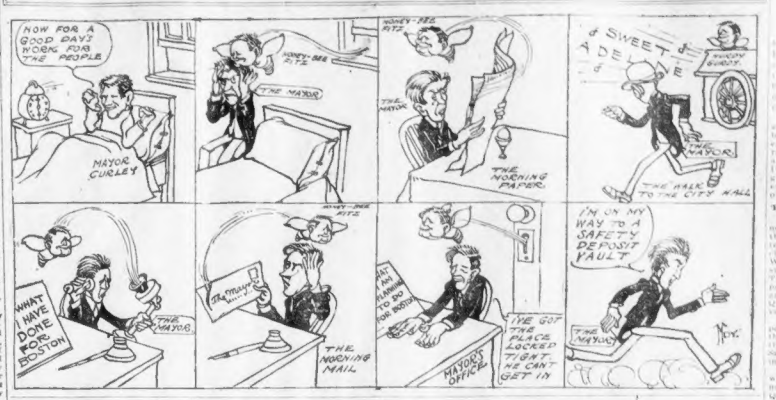
"If I had done this John A. Sullivan would have called for my indictment.

"If the Finance Commission does its duty, this appointment will be investigated and the facts given to the public. The fact that the new superintendent is John A. Sullivan's physician should not preclude such an investigation.

Of course, political favor was not the motive behind the removal of George McKay, superintendent of markets, and the appointment of Patrick Graham; or the appointment of two of his political managers, William Kearns and William Hennessey, to the Schoolmaster Commission, or the forced resignation of John B. Martin and Tilton S. Bell, Elected Commissioners, to make way for David B. Shaw and Frank Sellerdin, or Mr. Richardson's removal from the Board of Assessors to make room for Mr. Grainger, of Ward 17, or the removal of the former Board of Park Commissioners and the appointment of Gibson; or the discharge of Director Mowbray of the Aquarium and Professor Baker of the Zoo, leaders in their profession in this country, or the removal of Fire Chief Malley without forced retirement so as to cost him no serves as to send him to a private sanitarium; or the appointment of Plumbing Inspector Lynch to supervise millions of dollars of building operations.

"What innocents the Mayor must believe the people to be if he thinks they will swallow such flapdoodle!"

A DAY WITH THE MAYOR



THIEVES FIRE ON BROOKLINE MEN

In spite of the cold, near Mrs. H. Quincy of Hammond street, Brookline, among a number and carefully, neither carelessness in several that opportunity or burglars or other intruders. Policemen have again discovered her guard.

The Brookline police are only searching for the three armed robbers who tried to hold up two of her neighbors, Dr. and Mrs. Daniel Abrams, last Tuesday and Attorney Abrams, after a fight with the highwaymen, fired two shots at the fleeing men, but they escaped.

THREE MEN JUMPED OUT.

They were driving through Hammond street, in the Abrams' automobile, when three men jumped out, calling on them to stop. Instead of doing so, Abrams and Attorney Abrams opened fire. Three shots resulted, but as they were fired from a moving automobile and dashed into the house. Mrs. Quimby was there, ready to repel invaders.

A telephone message brought the police to the scene, but the men escaped on the highwaymen. This is the fourth time Mrs. Quimby has been disturbed. Saturday night she was awakened by a man who broke into the house.

A week ago Monday night Abrams was held up and relieved of $12. Two months ago another employee of Mrs. Quimby's was held up and robbed.

Mrs. Quimby, after the attempt to break into the house, bought a revolver and carefully made it known that the next marauder to come within her range would be the target. Since the last attempt she is uncertain what to do next.

TWO BROOKLINE BURGLARIES.

Two burglaries occurred in Brookline, on which the police have been working without success, became known today. The most sensational was when the apartments of Ernest Hemenway, No. 1 Vernon street, was ransacked. The door had been jimmied, the rooms ransacked. Two diamond pins, worth about $100, a $25 gold piece, shirtwaists and other articles of value were taken. Another visitation is Mrs. Frederick Gelin, from whom valuable jewelry and clothing were taken.

Another burglar chase, in which shots were exchanged, took place in Quincy. Constable Arthur Hultman of No. 1171 Hancock street found a man trying to break into his house. He fired at him and the man gave chase. When Hultman appeared to be gaining the burglar stopped long enough to fire back.

ODD OPERATION SAVES A WOMAN

Doctors James W. Lane, Herbert Johnson and Fred Kent are being congratulated today on the success of the unusual operation they were compelled to perform on a woman patient at 10 at Chelsea Hospital. She was in no condition to stand the ordeal.

The two were well and the absence, in no infinite hole of the right lung, which had become rubber were removed and the growth was irrigated. The extent to the patient was not ascertained immediately after the operation.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If your back hurts or Bladder bothers you, drink lots of water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the poisons and waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood, so 24 hours after strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water; you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a teaspoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days, and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot make a delightful effervescent, lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary tract clean and active. Try this, also, by all means, if you are troubled with rheumatism, for you are likely to find relief after the first dose, as it is said to be almost a specific for this trouble, because it is said to be almost a specific for this trouble, because it is said to be almost a specific for this trouble, because

DOCTOR DECLARES BOWLING THE BEST AND CHEAPEST OF ALL HEALTH MEDICINES

DOCTOR ADVISES BOWLING FOR HEALTH SEEKERS

INDOOR SPORT A "CURE ALL," SAYS PHYSICIAN

Best and Cheapest of All Medicines and Within Reach of All.

Among many things that recommend bowling, the present day fad of Boston, principal is the fact that from the viewpoint of health it ranks the O. K. of practically all physicians.

The alley game gives the devotee plenty of exercise, but not too violent. It gives and devotee the chance to get his mind off the worries and cares of business and he just a happy, fighting human being again.

Here's what one doctor, who has a lucrative practice aiming well to the business men says about the sport:

"What golf is to the Summer for the average human being, bowling is to the Winter. I do not hesitate to recommend it to practically all my patients.

"In the first place it gives a person a chance to exercise, of which we all get little enough.

REAL PLEASANT EXERCISE.

"Then again it gives that exercise in such a way that the one getting the benefit has a good time out of it. Exercise as exercise is the bane of the body, but when a little enjoyment is put in on the side, there's no objection whatever.

"From a physician's viewpoint, bowling has everything to recommend it.

"It gives all the muscles in a person's body play, and fills the mind with enthusiasm. In nine cases out of ten, a patient who is run down, is suffering as much from mental strain as physical ill.

"Get that patient bowling and his troubles are put aside for the time. Hitting the pins is the sole object of interest.

"Further a doctor can prescribe it without stirring up any objections on the part of his patient. It is comparatively inexpensive and requires no paraphernalia or cross country journeys or any of the things that occasionally we have to advise.

BENEFITS OF BOWLING.

"What's more, it takes up very little of a person's time. There are nowadays plenty of alleys handy to everybody, and a half hour's rolling gives one all the exercise that is necessary.

"No matter how a person bowls, all his muscles get a play. One may make an inexperienced subject sore for a time, but the pain soon departs. Then the added zest of the healthy body and the healthy mind applies, and your bowler is a much better human being than he was previously.

"As far as I have ever been able to discover, there's always lots of air in bowling alleys. The stuffiousness of the actual bowling makes a cool even temperature necessary and of a result one indulges too, and good ones. The Rev. J. Franklin Knotts, pastor of the Park ding gets plenty of fresh air into the lungs.

CLERGY ALSO FOR BOWLING.

"There are other things that might be said in favor of the sport. In fact there are all kinds of argument which could not be said can be advanced against it. But it seems to me that any defense is futile, though I do not see why anybody is bowling and appreciating just how much fun it is."

That is the view of one physician and a half a dozen others expressed regards the same opinion.

Leaders in all the walks of life are strong for the sport and this, perhaps, accounts for the wonderful popularity it enjoys at the present time.

The clergy is also pronounced advocate it, for the man who gets the bowling habit has little time left for other and inferior ways of spending his spare time.

Many men of the cloth are bowlers.

Church Leaders Also Among the Thousands to Enjoy Pastime.

Avenue Methodist Church and head of the Somerville Civic League is a mighty good roller, according to a local paper in that city.

A clipping tells how in five strings, the minister ran up the very good total of 495, with singles of 101, 104, 96, 93 and 101 respectively. Which are marks that the big league rollers would be very well satisfied with at any time.

Candlepin bowling, which is the distinctly Boston form of the game and patronized hereabouts to the almost total exclusion of the big pins, is gaining popularity in all the parts of the country where pioneers from New England have introduced it.

BOOST FOR CANDLEPINS.

In New York and other large cities throughout the country, the thin pins are growing in favor and in a short time threaten to push the older branch of the sport into the discard. Many of the stars in all sorts of people the Boston local form is far and away better. It is likewise a much more skillful game, and those who have tried both realize it.

Even old timers who have shot at bottle pins for years, soon forget the old love, once they get to handling at candles.

One prominent Boston alley owner is of the opinion that at the present time fully a third of the residents of greater Boston converts are sure of seventeen and forty are bowlers.

No doubt his idea is somewhat magnified by the fact that the dozen alleys he owns are always crowded and always signed days in advance.

Nevertheless, it is apparent to anyone who cares to look into it that the day is not far distant when the person who is not able to bowl at least a little will be the exception to the general rule.

NEW MODELS SEEN AT MOTOR SHOW

By J. C. KERRISON.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—One of the mathematical experts at the motor show now being held in the Grand Central Palace took his pencil and pad in hand the other day and arrived at certain deductions. These deductions are interesting to say the least. He figures that 42.4 per cent. of the motors used in motor construction this year are between twenty-five and thirty-four horsepower inclusive, that 26.9 per cent. are between fifteen and twenty-four, then come cars made from thirty-five to forty-four horsepower, which figure 9.2 per cent., cars of forty-five horsepower and over being 9.7 per cent., all motors of less than fifteen horsepower figure 2.8 per cent.

So the exhibit at the Palace there is about three cars of less than fifteen horsepower, thirty-five of from fifteen to twenty-four, fifty-five from twenty-five to thirty-four, twenty-six of thirty-five to forty-four and five of forty-five horsepower and over.

MANY CAR CHANGES.

The Buick exhibit is attracting no end of attention, owing to its variety of models which is claimed to be the most extensive made by any one manufacturer this year. These cars are pretty well known, comprising both fours and sixes, the former being both small and large. Little room for improvement was found in the Buick. In the motors tungsten steel valves have taken the place of nickel steel and multiple steel piston rings have succeeded the inside piston ring in each groove. The length of the piston has been increased to give greater bearing surface and prevent possibility of piston slip. The famous Buick valve-in-the-head motor is retained. The streamline body with new style combination headlights make these cars exceptionally attractive.

The Overland line occupies a prominent position in the exhibit, as well it might, owing to its long-established reputation and the variety of its

ORGANIZED BASEBALL HEADS DECLARE THEY ARE READY TO FIGHT SUIT BY FEDERALS

ORGANIZED BASEBALL READY TO FIGHT FEDERAL LEAGUE SUIT

Organized Ball—which means the owners of all the professional baseball clubs in the country except the Federal League—does not seem to be very much disturbed over the suit of the Federal League.

The suit was filed before Judge Landis in Chicago yesterday and asks that the National Commission be declared illegal and void and its members enjoined from continuing in an alleged unlawful combination. It charges that the governing body of organized ball, its rules and the national agreement under which it operates constitutes a violation of the anti-trust statutes and the common law.

Hearing on the bill was set by Judge Landis for January 20.

Chairman Herrmann of the Commission said:

"An investigation or a suit of this character is something that has been invited by organized baseball, either through the courts or a committee representing Congress, for some years past, and we have every reason to believe that when the same has been tried and finished there will be an absolutely clean book for the national game."

CZAR OF BASEBALL SPEAKS.

President Johnson of the American League said: "I think this is another attempt to keep the Feds before the public. The suit on the face of it is absurd. Why, the Feds have been trying to get into Organized Baseball, so-called! We are not operating a trust, for anybody with money can buy into our circuits. Speaking offhand, I have no fear of the result of this suit."

President Tener of the National League said: "Much good it would do the Federal League. We could get along without the National Commission. The National League has prospered for forty years, while the National Commission has only been in existence a few years."

That the National agreement shall be declared illegal and void and that organized baseball shall be enjoined from operating under its rules. That the National Commission shall be declared illegal.

That organized baseball shall be declared a trust in restraint of trade and that all participants shall be enjoined from further continuing in business.

OBJECT TO WORD "OUTLAWS."

That the men in organized baseball shall be restrained from stating that the men in the Federal League are financially irresponsible, from threatening ball players with the "blacklist" and from referring to the Federal League players as "outlaws."

That all contracts held by the teams in organized baseball shall be declared void and the players be declared free agents.

That the organized club owners be compelled to dismiss the suits they have brought against George W. Johnson, the Cincinnati pitcher who jumped to Kansas City), Harold Chase (the White Sox player who leaped to Buffalo), Marsans (the Cuban who left the Reds) and Lee Magee (the Cardinal who jumped to manage the Brooklyn Federals).

FEDS WANT DAMAGES.

That the club owners in organized baseball be restrained from attempting to win back by injunction, by threats, by bonuses, promises of bonuses or otherwise, the following players: Fischer, Caldwell, Perritt, Wingo, O'Connor, Bedient, Austin, Allen, Berghammer, Bender, Plank and Marquard.

That all the damages which the Federal League has sustained be fixed by the court and paid by the men in organized baseball.

The bill, by far the most sensational which has been filed since the Feds began their warfare, was presented to Judge Landis by Edward P. Clarke, attorney for the third league, and by Keene H. Addington, attorney for President Weeghman of the Chicago Club.

Although the clubs of the American and National Leagues and the members of the commission are made the defendants, as a matter of fact all the minor leagues in the country and every man in organized baseball is affected, for all operate under the national agreement and National Commission.

SENSATION PROMISED BY ORGANIZED BALL IN SUIT BY FEDERALS

CINCINNATI, Jan. 6.—August Herrmann, chairman of the National Commission, in a statement in regard to the suit filed by the Federal League in Chicago, said:

"An investigation or a suit of this character is something that has been invited by organized baseball, either through the courts or a committee representing Congress, for some years past, and we have every reason to believe that when the same has been tried and finished there will be an absolutely clean book for the national game.

"We have nothing whatever to fear. Our acts, in fact everything connected with the national agreement, the National Commission, the American and National leagues and all of their clubs, is an open book and a matter of record.

"It will be time for organized baseball in a position to make charges against the Federal League through their answer in this case that will be astounding and surprising to the baseball public.

"Charging that the rules of organized baseball and the national agreement are a violation of the common law and the anti-trust statutes of the country, as made by the Federal League in the suit, is mild as against the charge which we will present of fraud, conspiracy and bad faith."

YOUNG CUE STAR DEFEATS VETERAN

Welker Cochran, the young seventeen-year-old billiardist, defeated the veteran, George Sutton, 400 to 282, at Misky Murray's imperial billiard hall.

Cochran came to Boston after having been defeated by Sutton at Springfield, and the youngster was determined that the veteran should not get very far over here on the second date Sutton had the longest individual run, his 84 in the twelfth inning. Most of Sutton's run of 84 were obtained when the balls were brought from the far end of the table to the centre of the table. His nearest shots were wonderfully brought off.

Cochran's longest run was 56, in the eleventh inning, but he followed it up with 48, which gave him a substantial lead over his opponent.

ATTRACTIONS AT BOSTON THEATRES

"Your Girl and Mine" is the title of the feature photo-production that the management of the Majestic Theatre is offering to its patrons for this week. The play is being presented for the first time in Boston and comes here with the great approval of large New York and Chicago audiences. The production is made by the World Film Company and is presented in six parts. While the story is naturally intended to strengthen the cause of woman suffrage, it is, nevertheless, an absorbing melodrama with enough thrilling situations to appease the appetites of even the strongest critic.

"Your Girl and Mine" was originally produced under the direction of the National American Woman's Suffrage Association, and Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, the famous suffrage leader, appears personally in the play. The leading characters are ably portrayed by Olive Wyndham, an actress of great charm and splendid personality, and Sydney Booth, recently seen here in "The Yellow Ticket." As a whole the play should be seen by all who favor woman suffrage, as well as those who oppose it. The latter may find good cause to change their minds. The rest of the program includes several of the latest comic and dramatic photo plays, in addition to an organ recital. The scheduled installment of "The Million" is announced for next week.

Loew's Orpheum.

An all-star show was presented at this theatre yesterday, headed by George H. Reno & Co., in the comedy entitled "The Misfit Army." This act was a scream from start to finish. Others to appear were International Trio, Burton Hahn & McDonald, who offered songs new to Boston, which were very well received. The comedy sketch entitled "The Claim Agent," also pleased. A beautiful musical offering was presented by Chabot & Dixon, and Mack & Harlan pleased with their singing and comedy talking specialty. "Beth Challis," that juvenile entertainer, made a decided hit in her character impersonations of famous vaudeville stars.

Gaiety Theatre

A high-class performance was presented by the Hastings Show at the Gaiety yesterday. The company offers a well constructed two-act piece called "On and Off the Earth," which bristles with laughter and good humor. The company is headed by Dan Coleman, who appears during the performance in his well known female character of Bathsheba O'Brien. Mr Coleman is ably assisted.

The feminine contingent is headed by Eileen Sherman, who makes many successful attacks on the hearts of her audience.

Keith's Bijou Dream.

Winsor McKay celebrated comedy picture, "Gertie the Dinosaurus," is being shown here this week. This is a masterpiece of whimsicality. Other features are Pritchard and Duke in "Out in the Great Alone," Rose Ber Rosters, soprano; W. L. Waler, baritone; and Isadora Pratt, tenor.

'MIDNIGHT GIRL' AT THE SHUBERT

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

"The Midnight Girl," a musical farce from the pen of Hough & Frey, with music by Briquet and Adolf Philipp, and adapted by Adolf Philipp and Edward A. Paulton, comes to the Shubert for a limited engagement. The big cast is headed by George MacFarlane, the baritone, and Margaret Romaine, and including also William Pruette, Harry Delf and Marie Flynn.

The story of the piece as it has arrived into English and after various revisions and amputations made necessary by the conventions of the U. S. A., deals with the misadventures of a man who impersonates Senator Criquet, the idol of France. This dashing masquerader marries a cabaret singer named Helene and sets him to honeymoon hall. Thither comes a second impersonation of the gentleman referred to, with the other cabaret singer, and finally there arrives the real senator, his wife and twelve children.

Last night, unfortunately, officers of the law came around and removed from the cast nine of the twelve children because they were under fourteen years of age, and the poor senator had to say: "Here are three of my twelve children."

The second act is typically French farce with half a dozen chamber doors opening from the main hall of the hotel. The rest of the piece is pure extravaganza.

The music of "The Midnight Girl" is remarkably bright and there are half a dozen splendid numbers. The book is full of good lines and a lot of clever people. The comedy is rarely very hilarious.

George MacFarlane is a very agreeable singer. His baritone is rich and mellow and his personality is spirited. He is a comedian. Margaret Romaine is a sister of Hazel Dawn, both ladies reputed to be millionaires, and has been singing in opera abroad. This is her first effort at musical comedy, but she has splendid in quality, large in volume and should stand the wear and tear of musical comedy very well. She displays much vivacity and is likely to make herself a good actress in a very short time.

Aside from these two, William Pruette as a waiter with a taste for grand opera, stands out as he sings well and knows how to be funny. Harry Delf and Marie Flynn have a charming and singing number in the first act called "A Lesson in Love," which is adorable. Miss Romaine's big song is "The Midnight Cabaret."

Loew's St. James.

An all-star show was presented to the patrons of the St. James Theatre yesterday. Among the headliners to appear was that clever character comedian Miss Madge Mains, who presented her original offerings. Miss Mains was a decided hit. Another feature was the Nowlin Troupe, who presented one of the greatest acts of its kind in vaudeville. Lyrics pleased with her specialty. Archer & Belford kept the audience in an uproar in their comedy pantomime sketch, "The Janitor's Troubles." Many other features were presented.

Shubert Theatre.

"The Midnight Girl" moved into the Shubert Theatre last night and opened to a big house. George MacFarlane and Margaret Romaine are prominent in the cast, but there is a big company and a fine bookstore that is replete in the kind of frolicsome and is very lively. It will be reviewed in detail in Wednesday's AMERICAN by Frederick Johns.

Casino Theatre.

The Girls of the Gay White Way descended upon Hugh Dougherty's and delighted two big audiences with their singing, dancing and merry making. A trio of really great entertainers heads the cast in Maudie Rockwell, Ben Small and Rose Snow.

Bowdoin Square Theatre.

"Smashing the Vice Trust" was the photo drama feature at the Bowdoin Square Theatre and is the first to be a feature that was thoroughly enjoyer by the patrons. It deals with a theory that unearths vice and points the road to the remedy.

Exeter Street Theatre.

The feature picture at the Exeter Street Theatre the first half of the week is "The Country House," a Bosworth creation, with Robert Bosworth in the leading role. Next week in "Mrs. Black Is Back" will be shown the last half of the week.

ASKS HEARING ON WALKER OUSTING

A public hearing on the charges on which Governor Walsh based his removal of Fred F. Walker as Commissioner of Animal Industry, is demanded by Attorney John P. Feeney, counsel for Walker, in a caustic letter to the Governor.

A copy of the charges is also demanded, and Attorney Feeney declares, if Walsh does not grant his requests, he will appeal to the Supreme Court to force the Governor to grant the deposed commissioner his statutory right as neither removed for cause, in know the charges and to defend himself against them.

One charge against the commissioner was that he appointed as one of the Commonwealth to an annual salary of $1200 a lady friend of a tenant in law. Attorney Feeney insists the so-called "Agreement of Hill of Sale" is not a matter of appraisal. His letter says in part:

HUSBAND'S BLOOD FAILS TO SAVE HER

Mme. Gerville-Reache, former dramatic contralto of the Boston and Metropolitan opera companies, is dead at the Roosevelt Hospital in New York today, despite the two operations for transfusion of blood which her husband, Dr. Georges G. Rambeau, director of the Pasteur Institute in New York, submitted in an effort to save her.

She died of blood poisoning. Her last professional appearance is said to have been that which she made a month ago at the Boston Theatre under the auspices of the Music School settlement.

On the same stage she made her first appearance here in opera, during the first Hammerstein season, when she took the part of Anita in "La Navarraise" and the part of the Queen in "Pelleas and Melisande." That was in the Spring of 1909.

But her Boston debut had previously taken place at a Symphony concert given February 7, 1908, when she sang for the first time the famous aria, "My Heart at Thy Dear Voice," from Samson and Delilah," which was one of the greatest arias in her extensive repertory.

Wakefield Teacher Wed Month in Secret

Miss Bertha May Lawton, formerly a teacher in Wakefield, has been the secret bride of Lyle Norman Davis of Worcester, as of December 1, it became known today. The ceremony was performed in Essex and two days after the wedding the bride announced her engagement.

If You Could Only Be a Stomach
You'd Go to Bed Rather Sore at the Work You'd Have to Do.

Fancy a master that works a horse so long, without rest, that the poor old beast at last has to go to a bone pile.

Fancy yourself doing the same thing with your stomach—the noblest of all our physical organs.

Can't imagine yourself devoting hours of ceaseless work to the digestion of a meal which you cannot digest because of wrongful ingredients given to you by the blood.

Is not a man very foolish to imagine a raw sick stomach capable of good work when the juices it receives are so filled with alkali or acid that they actually eat the stomach membrane?

Can you not know from a common sense point of view that to continue such a course means not only the impairment of your stomach but of all digestive organs as well?

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets go into your stomach just like food. They are so quickly dissolved. They ease up the stomach's work. They go into the blood and tissue so perfectly. Thus, when the stomach calls for the digestive juices and fuel you are able to furnish them.

Your common sense will tell you that no great skill and no direction as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets could not be in every drug store, unless demanded after trial by all classes of stomach sufferers.

No more are they a doubtful quality. They have earned a right of examination by all manner of stomach test, digestive and food tests and have been awarded the diploma of American patronage. Theirs has been the price-final test.

Send coupon below today and we will at once send you by mail a sample free.

A Merchant Marine Made in America the Nation's Need

To the Editor of the Boston AMERICAN:

I want to give vigorous and discriminating support to the administration bill to provide a merchant marine. I am moved to support the bill, not only because of its public ownership provisions, but because of the character and attitude of the opposition.

The bill is not perfect, and should be amended. There is no reason why, when public ownership of a merchant marine shall have proved a success, the government should turn over the whole laboriously constructed system to private ownership.

To realize the absurdity of that proposition we have only to apply the same principle to other public ownership matters.

Suppose the government should take over the railroads and say: "If we are not able to run them successfully, we will keep them, but, if we are able to run them successfully, we will turn them BACK to private ownership."

That would be an utterly ridiculous plan and proposal. Yet such a plan is not less ridiculous on sea than it would be on land. Government ownership afloat has the same fundamental principles as government ownership ashore.

The administration proposal ought to say:

"Private ownership has proved utterly unsuccessful in providing a merchant marine. We will now try public ownership, and if public ownership succeeds, we will not turn a development so vitally important to the growth and prosperity of the nation back to private ownership, to be made a failure again, but we will continue it in the hands of the government which has made it a success, and we will proceed to make it a still greater success for the greater benefit of the people."

Furthermore, the bill should be amended to encourage not only ship buying, but ship building. This nation should have not only a merchant marine, but a merchant marine "MADE IN AMERICA."

Let us buy the ships that we need quickly and build the ships that we need thereafter.

Let us realize that, important as it is to have an American merchant marine to transfer American products, it is still more important to have American products to transport, and therefore important to encourage the American producers—the laborers, farmers and business men, who, by their effort and enterprise, provide these American products and create the foundations of the nation's wealth.

Government ownership of public enterprise and government encouragement of legitimate private business should be equally and impartially the policies of a Democratic administration.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

President Wilson Twice Fails to Properly Aid Our Shipping

In endeavoring to meet the universally recognized demand for the rehabilitation of our merchant marine, President Wilson has committed two serious errors.

The war has forced this need of an American merchant marine upon the attention of the American people.

But IT IS NOT A WAR TIME PROBLEM.

By our abject surrender to foreign shipping owners, we levy upon our people every year a tax payable abroad, ranging far up into the hundreds of millions. Mr. Max May of the Guaranty Trust Company, an authority on foreign trade, estimates our annual payment on freight to foreign ship owners at $150,000,000. Mr. John F. Gardin of the National City Bank, another authority, estimates it as high as $300,000,000. This must be paid abroad, paid to be distributed in dividends to foreign stockholders spending their money in Europe.

It is amazing that a great nation should find itself today in the position of the United States. We produce everything for which the nations of Europe—those at peace, as well as the belligerents—are now clamoring. Our wheat, meats, cotton, oil, copper and the products of our factories are all needed there. Our flag, being neutral, should protect our ships carrying our goods to our customers.

BUT WHERE ARE THE SHIPS?

Our shipping, even with the 150 or so vessels which have come under the American flag, is totally inadequate to our needs, even in time of peace, when other nations join in the carrying trade. Today, when German and Austrian shipping is swept from the seas and English and French ships must proceed with caution, we are utterly unable to make an impression on the volume of trade awaiting us.

Only a day or two ago a single New York firm, made up of Americans, deplored the loss of three of its ships sunk by German shells because THEY FLEW THE BRITISH FLAG.

When Oscar Underwood, a true leader, sought to re-establish American shipping by granting a preferential tariff to goods in American bottoms, he reverted to an old principle. Such a tariff was in effect until 1859. At that time WE DID 70 PER CENT. OF OUR OCEAN CARRYING TRADE. The Morrill tariff law struck out the differential and the decadence of American shipping began.

Mr. Underwood in his tariff bill restored the time-honored Democratic principle by granting 5 per cent. lower tariff rates upon all goods imported in American ships. This would have restored the American flag to the sea. But President Wilson by an executive order suspended this provision of the tariff bill.

Now the President offers a fair promise of a government-owned fleet—but the fruit turns to ashes in the mouth when he says that, if successful, he will turn the fleet over to those private agencies that have failed to keep our place on the ocean.

By all means, let our merchant marine be re-established; let us have a government-owned fleet; but LET IT BE OURS TO KEEP.

Science for Workers

By EDGAR LUCIEN LARKIN

Q.—"KINDLY state the scientific reason for the difference in weight of such metals as gold and aluminum. All metals, I presume, are capable of a certain amount of compression; but it seems to be impossible to compress the so-called lighter metals to anything like the weight of gold or platinum. Why?"—R. WHAITE.

A.—Humans cannot hope to compress light aluminum down to the weight of heavy gold. Hydraulic presses made of the thickest steel cylinders and heaviest parts, where force of mechanical pressure is the highest attained by human skill, cannot hope to press atoms of matter closer to each other in the molecule than set by the specific law for the material in question.

When large volumes of hydrogen, nitrogen, oxygen, air or helium are compressed down to frigid liquids, and to still colder solids, the molecules of these gases are very much nearer to each other; but the atoms in the molecules are as far apart as before pressure was applied. By looking at any table of atomic weights it will be seen that the atomic weight of aluminum is 27.6; gold, 196.6, and platinum, 197.

The atom of hydrogen is the unit, its weight being 1. Thus, gold atoms are attracted toward the centre of gravity of the earth with a force 196.6 times more intense than hydrogen atoms. And this is the only answer that can be given until somebody discovers what attraction of gravitation is.

At present not even a suggestion as to what it is has been made. Aluminum can be made denser by immense force of compression; so can platinum somewhat; but the two metals cannot be changed to equality in mass per volume, nor by any means in atomic weights. Future researches on electrons may throw light upon these recondite physical problems.

Q.—"Is there any place in the universe where there is no light?"—Allen Rosenkinns, Pennfield, Pa.

A.—No astronomer can answer the question, "Is there any place in space where there is no light?" Astronomers, telespectroscopists, celestial photographers, cosmic dust and meteor researchers are striving hourly around the world to find whether there is extinction or absorption of light in space.

It is known that light actually traverses distances of at least one quadrillion miles from remote suns to the earth, from all directions in the sidereal universe. These rays are allowed to fall on diffraction gratings for analysis to find if wave-lengths are modified during flight hither.

Science at present is unable to state whether there are suns five, ten or twenty quadrillion miles away, nor if there are, whether they are able to send light out here to our infinitesimally minute, almost exactly but not quite, nothing of a world, the earth.

Those Who Know the New License Commissioner Honor Him

The Governor's appointment of Charles R. Gow to be License Commissioner was a great surprise to everybody.

Mr. Gow is so little known that it was difficult immediately to form an opinion of his fitness for the office. But careful inquiry of those who know Mr. Gow personally and by reputation, socially and through business relations, reveals the fact that all speak highly of his character and ability.

Mr. Gow is a well-trained and successful man, and there seems to be little doubt that he will prove a satisfactory commissioner and that the Governor has made a very creditable appointment.

More Truth Than Poetry

Golf and Strong Language

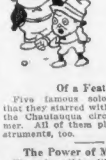
With Pictures by the Golf Editor

Based on Professor Taft's statement that a man cannot play good golf and curse at the same time.

WHEN first I stood upon a tee
And sought to drive a rubber pill
A hundred yards or so from me,
Across an artificial hill,
And found the pesky little thing
So irritably elusive
That I went past it every swing,
I must confess, I grew abusive.

AND when, a little further on,
I did my best to swat the ball,
And tore up yards and yards of lawn
And never touched the ball at all.
I used such language as I thought
The time and the occasion fitted—
Expressions which I'm certain ought
From printed speech to be omitted.

BUT though, what time I ploughed and hacked,
The cussing impulse I obeyed,
It did not help a bit; in fact,
The more I cussed the worse I played.
For I became so much enthused
And drew so hard on my invention
That the invective that I used
Deprived the game of my attention.



I NOW can make an average score,
It's very seldom that I flub;
I plough the putting greens no more
And never do I break a club,
And if I suffer a reverse
And feel a fit of rage come o'er me,
I'm very careful not to curse—
I make the caddy do it for me!

Of a Feather

Five famous soloists advertise that they starred with Mr. Bryan on the Chautauqua circuit last Summer. All of them played wind instruments, too.

The Power of Momentum

There is nothing like the force of habit. The Chile wireless operator keeps right on sending news of heavy firing off his coast long after the last belligerent vessel has gone to the bottom of the ocean.

Still a Mystery

Curious that not a single paper has told what kind of an automobile it was that Henry Ford gave young Thomas A. Edison.

Lo! the Shrewd Savage

The fact that the Filipinos are busily plotting for their own independence indicates that they do not read in the election returns any promise that Mr. Wilson's legislative program will be carried out to the letter.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox —ON— MISTAKES MADE BY WOMEN

Boast of Success in Winning Hearts and Getting Proposals One of Gravest Errors Possible---Girls Who Appear Blase Lower Themselves

Copyright, 1913, by the Star Company.

NO greater mistake can be made with men than for a woman to boast of her success in winning hearts and proposals. It seems impossible that a woman possessed of one ray of common sense or a particle of breeding could do such a thing; yet it is not unusual to hear a young lady relating her conquests to a group of admirers, and laughing over the susceptibility of mankind. Though they may laugh with her they are sure to laugh about her among themselves when her back is turned.

It is always a mistake for a woman to be led into lowering her ideals because some man she loves and admires urges her to step down. He invariably curses her if she does, while if she turns and passes above him she hears his benediction, and eight times out of ten he follows her.

It is always a mistake for a young lady to talk to a man as if she were blase and widely experienced in all human emotions, frailties and faults. Many innocent and inexperienced girls adopt this manner, thinking it will render them fascinating in the eyes of men.

Men, Not Analytic, Judge by Appearance Far More Than Women Do

Men are not analytic or deep-minded enough in regard to our sex to realize that a girl who has drunk too deeply of the waters of knowledge does not talk of it. Men take us for what we seem, not for what we are. The most hardened mondaine who wears a mask of frank innocence fares better with them than the good, sweet-hearted girl who puts on blase airs, and pretends to be a little wicked. Men judge by appearances far more than women do. Except in cases where women are rivals, they are less liable to condemn one another for a slight lapse of speech or conduct than men are to condemn us.

Another mistake which women sometimes make is to ask any favor of a man which will put him to the least expense. No matter how pressing are the circumstances, she should never take the liberty unless he is a near relative. In the various circles of American society, where it is the custom of young men to escort young ladies to theatres and other places of entertainment, it is a mistake for a young lady to voluntarily expatiate upon her fondness for the theatre or the concert in his presence.

It is a mistake for a young woman to correct or scold her parents in the presence of men, imagining they will admire her culture or courage or imagining that they will not notice it. A wealthy and accomplished girl at one of our noted seashore resorts was severely criticised and condemned by a group of men because one of them had heard her speak unkindly to her mother.

It is a mistake for a woman (wife, mother, sister or sweetheart) to make plans for the disposal of all a man's spare hours, and then expect him to enjoy himself.

Mistake for Woman to Try to Prove Great Knowledge and Intellect

It is a mistake for a woman to try to prove to men her great knowledge and superior intellect. They enjoy an intellectual woman when they discover her brightness themselves, but they do not like to have her force her brains and learning upon them.

But it is just as great a mistake to assume an air of insipidity and expect a man to think it charming. Men are exacting in their demands. Too much or too little brain in a woman is equally offensive to them.

It is the mistake of a lifetime to accord a man any liberty and expect him to keep the matter a secret. While the exceptional man may maintain silence on the actions of a young girl whom he believes unsophisticated, the average man (in the highest the same as in the lowest walks of life) boasts of his successes with foolish women, and the rendezvous, the letter, the embrace or the souvenir which she has given him, thinking it will never be known to others, is shortly the matter of gossip among a dozen people.

Woman's Worst Mistake Is to Think She Can Make No Mistake

Women hide their secrets far better than men do. They fear the censure of the world too much to share their mistakes with confidantes. But men are invariably vain and proud of their conquests, and relate their achievements with the fair sex to one or two admiring friends. They seldom use names, but let the incidents once be told it is an easy matter to discover the personages if one is at all curious to do so.

It is the worst mistake of all for a woman to think she can make no mistake. The moment such a conviction enters her head she is on the highway to some grand blunder whereby she will wound, disgust or antagonize the man she most cares for. Eternal watchfulness, never-failing caution, perpetual tact and equal quantities of pride and humility are necessary ingredients in the behavior a woman needs to use with men. This should be garnished with good sense, flavored with coquetry, and served with good nature. And even then we will be liable to make some false steps.

The Finance and Economy Board Again Demonstrates Its Value

In the proceedings before the Governor and Council which resulted in the removal of Mr. Walker, animal inspector, the Commission on Finance and Economy demonstrated the value of that institution to the State.

The Governor and Council sat merely as judges while the case against Mr. Walker was presented by the Commission on Finance and Economy through Mr. Francis X. Tyrrell, its chairman. The Governor did not even know what the recommendations were until Mr. Tyrrell actually presented them at the meeting of the Council.

Mr. Tyrrell is not a lawyer, but it is the opinion of the Governor and several counsellors that he presented the case against Mr. Walker with a consummate skill and fairness which would have done credit to the best lawyer.

This is one of the many investigations in which the Commission on Finance and Economy has rendered great service to the State. It is a well balanced commission, in which Mr. Tyrrell represents the Democratic idea, Mr. Wood the Progressive and Mr. White the Republican. This tends to insure to the board a non-partisan character, and it has in fact hewed to the line, letting the chips fall where they might.
